COMPARATIVE IMPORTS AND EXPORTS FOR NEW YORK CITY.

NEW YORK SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1869. [Whole No. 86.

Our discussion of the scope and intent of this building has left us no room to criticize it architecturally. It is enough to say that it is admirably planned, and seems in every way adapted to the purpose for which it is intended. The front, which is of pressed brick, with Ohio stone trimmings, possesses some very handsome features in detail, although rambling and incoherent in its general effect. The impression, too, at a first glance, is too much that of a public building. This is a mistake. Privacy and comfort being what all are mainly seeking who would inhabit such a structure, the aim of an architect should rather be to give it the appearance of a succession of private residences, without any features that could possibly suit it with a public institution.

HOUSEs ON THE EUROPEAN PLAN.

Is there one social subject which, more than any other, has been gone free and full discussion among us, without one capitalist arriving at any practical result, it has been that of providing suitable dwellings for that large class of the community who are embraced between the rich and the poor; people unable on the one hand to inhabit expensive houses, and yet, on the other, of too much refinement and good social standing to be submitted to all the vulgar annoyances of so-called "tenant houses." Still, to many who were bent upon retaining the privacy of their own little domestic circles, rather than lead the promiscuous life of a boarding house, there has been often literally no other refuge than the tenement house. Architects have, over and over again, drawn public attention to this important matter, and suggested means of overcoming it, but apparently to no effect. Mr. Calvert Vaux was the first, we believe, to publish a plan, which appeared many years ago in Harper's Monthly Magazine, showing how several families could be accommodated in one building, and yet be kept quite isolated. Mr. J. R. Hamilton, another architect, followed up the subject years ago, before the war, and prepared an ingenious plan, which was noticed at great length in all the leading journals of New York, by which on two or ordinary lots of 25 feet by 100 feet eight families could be accommodated, each with all the conveniences of a good little dwelling-house, be kept just as distinct from each other as if they resided in separate houses alongside of each other in the same street, and at prices to meet the moderate incomes comes, while affording ample room to the proprietor. Other architects have since, we believe, renewed the discussion and made suggestions of value, but all to no purpose. Capitalists either could not or would not understand them.

One who is happy to find, however, that light has at last broken upon one point at least, and that a number of houses are now in course of erection upon the European system, embodying the main ideas so long and so vainly urged upon the public leading journals of New York, by which on two or several lots of 25 feet by 100 feet eight families could be accommodated, each with all the conveniences of a good little dwelling-house, be kept just as distinct from each other as if they resided in separate houses alongside of each other in the same street, and at prices to meet the moderate incomes comes, while affording ample room to the proprietor. Other architects have since, we believe, renewed the discussion and made suggestions of value, but all to no purpose. Capitalists either could not or would not understand them.

MARTET REVIEW.

BRICKS.—North River trades have met with a less active demand, though sellers manage to realize pretty near former rates, the previously noted feeling of sluggishness is gradually disappearing and the turn in the market is noticeable. These have been few sales of high quality on account of a scarcity of up-river brick. The river front, however, is stocked up and quantities of fair stock are well sold, the trade being but moderate, but no heavy speculative buying is noticed. There is no prospect of a rise in prices, but the market is sound and firm and the trade will continue to be solid and steady. Prices at $45@48 per M.

Cement.—The demand is better. There is a moderate increase of activity, although the market is not very active. The trade is well supplied, and the prices are about the same, with an occasional rise. There is no prospect of a rise in prices, but the market is sound and firm and the trade will continue to be solid and steady. Prices at $2.50@2.75 per M.

Glass.—The demand is steady, and the market is firm. There is no prospect of a rise in prices, but the market is sound and firm and the trade will continue to be solid and steady. Prices at $2.00@2.50 per M.

Lime.—The supply of Rockland has not been at all plentiful, and the market is firm. There is no prospect of a rise in prices, but the market is sound and firm and the trade will continue to be solid and steady. Prices at $6.00@6.50 per M.

Measurement.—The demand for measurement is very active, and the market is firm. There is no prospect of a rise in prices, but the market is sound and firm and the trade will continue to be solid and steady. Prices at $6.00@6.50 per M.

Rubble.—The demand is steady, and the market is firm. There is no prospect of a rise in prices, but the market is sound and firm and the trade will continue to be solid and steady. Prices at $1.50@1.75 per M.

Sand.—There is a moderate increase of activity, although the market is not very active. The trade is well supplied, and the prices are about the same, with an occasional rise. There is no prospect of a rise in prices, but the market is sound and firm and the trade will continue to be solid and steady. Prices at $2.00@2.50 per M.

Timber.—The demand is steady, and the market is firm. There is no prospect of a rise in prices, but the market is sound and firm and the trade will continue to be solid and steady. Prices at $6.00@6.50 per M.

Thursday, November 4, 1869.

The Board met in their Chamber, No. 16 City Hall, pursuant to adjournment.

Present—Assistant Aldermen Pinckney and Roberts—2.

WILLIAM H. MOLONEY, Clerk.
some of the finer sorts of hard woods, would be placed quickly and at a fair price, but the current ent- lished consideration, even of these styles there is no dis- pany. From Albany we learn of a continued brisk demand and high prices on the market for the best sort of boards, and that a small supply will go over, even at considerably more than last week, but a very large pro- do.; to San Francisco, 82,032 do., and 1,214 pes. lumber. to Cuba, 2,400 do.; to Chili, 21,000 do.; to Peru, 10,000

The exports of lumber have been as follows:

The West Branch Bulletin, of Williamstown, Pa., con- tains the following table, Nov. 5:

The following table shows the amount rafted out of the Susquehanna Boom the present season:

We quote at 65.50, per foot, for inferior to prime, and 60.00 for choice. A few chance offerings have been made recently, but the market can only be considered moderately active, and the general tone is still rather dull. The market shows a slight advance on No. 3, 10,650 feet Eastern at $18.10; 90,000 feet at 40.00 cents; at $35.90 per M, and 40.00 cents per foot, and about 400 pieces pilings, at 60.00, per foot.

The receipts reported are as follows: From Jacksonville, 350,000 feet lumber; from St. John, N.B., 168,110 feet; from Wm. B. Philpott, Liverpool, 94,000 feet; from Oran gew, N.B., 121,215 feet; and 12,080 fathom; from Harvey, 21,000 feet; from Chicago, 200,000 feet; from Sault Ste. Marie, 100,000 feet; from Marquette, 50,000 feet; from St. John, 50,000 feet; from Missis- sauga, 50,000 feet; from Toronto 90,000 feet; from Oswego, Can., 24,318 do.; from Quebec, 3.502 pa- cts., and 3,317 logs; from Montreal, 1,002 pats., and 3,950 lumber boxes; from Charlottetown; 2,000 boxes, and 9,001 feet lumber; from Maine coast, 15,130 lumber, and 3,800 do.; from Pulpwood, and 5,648 pes; lumber. from Can., 7,100; from Eoat, and 950 pes; lumber. from Can., 7,100; from Eoat, and 950 pes; lumber.

The Chicago market continues well supplied, rather dull, and prices heavy. A recent report says: "In the aggre- gate the wholesale market for lumber, during the past week, has been rather more steady than usual. Indeed, the volume of business transacted from day to day was only moderate, and, as the quality of the offerings was unsuitable to the trade, we are at a loss to

The moves of stock in the Southern markets are fair, prices have been rather steady, and sales good. Exports have been made from Baltimore of 4,195 pine boxes; to New York, 110,000; to London; 10,000 to Rot- terdam; and 2,000 feet lumber to John F. D.

MEAT — Copper sheathing is selling in small lots for immediate consumption to about the usual extent, and at about $2.00 per foot. Copper prices need not be negotiated upon easier terms. We quote at $2.25, for very good sheathing; $2.50 for American sheathing, and $2.75 for British sheathing, in arrive, and $2.50 in store. We continue to hear of little demand, and prices heavy. The Argus report for the week ending November 9, 1869, says:

The market since our last report has been steady in price, with active sales and shipments. The prospects are unalike, the market being in good condition as a consequence the assortments of all kinds has been much more uniform and the prices lower. The price on coarse lumber especially. Notwithstanding the fair reports for the week, it will be seen and admitted by regular buyers, that the rush of boats to that point may be so great as to make whatever improvements may be made on the large quantity of lumber at that point to Albany. The buyers who are desirous of obtaining a large quantity of lumber by canal, is greater than has been known for years. At Wholesale, all the complaint is great of want of both minds, and demand is still gradually falling off, and there is little indication that the market will be active, the demand is still gradually falling off, and there is little indication that the market will take shape at any time in the near future. The exports for the week are 21 packages, valued at $1,959.

The receipts for the week at Buffalo were 893 packages, valued at $3,375,450, with active sales and shipments.
