OUR NEW PARKS.

We believe that the gentlemen who formerly administered the affairs of the Central Park and upper Boulevards had under consideration plans for the improvement of the Morningside Park, based on the idea that the Commissioners who were appointed to take the land for the Park, and estimate the amounts of damage and benefit, would have made their report in a reasonable period of time. Had they done so, the work on the Park could have been commenced nearly two years ago.

Complaints of want of energy, and of too much of one man's control, and too much of one man's ideas, had become rife for two years preceding the period when these gentlemen were legislated out of office, and a small Commission of very prominent men formed, by which course it was stated that harmony of action and greater speed would be given to the more rapid development of the city above Fourteenth street, the upper boundary of Ancient New York.

The gentleman who was selected by our talented Mayor for the high honor of the Presidency of the new Department of Public Parks, was Peter Barn Sweeney. This is the gentleman to whom we are principally indebted for our present City Charter, which, taken all in all, is the best Charter to meet the requirements of the times that our city has ever had.

Mr. Sweeney has been so prominently before the public for years past, that it is simply sufficient to name him. He is a gentleman of a very high sense of personal honor, of strict integrity in money matters, and a distinguished scholar. He has most indomitable persistence, and is full of stratagems in carrying out his political plans, and is conceded by public repute to be the most influential man in the Democratic party in this State. He is said to be a warm-hearted man, and more attached to his personal friends than forgiving to his political enemies. A request was made to him to name the four gentlemen it would give him pleasure to be associated with in this Department. The names selected were—

ROBERT JAMES DILLON, a very distinguished non-practising lawyer, a scholar of fine culture and taste, over-living with idle leisure, and one of the original members of the Central Park Commission.

HENRY HILTON, also distinguished as a jurist, a superior scholar, quick in discovering character, and of most excellent taste in landscape gardening. This gentleman has also the honor of being selected by ALEXANDER T. STEWART, a large owner of improved lots in the more ancient part of our city, as his private counsel and Real Estate adviser. His course honors the confidence reposed in him, as Mr. Stewart's interests have in him a vigilant guardian.

THOMAS C. FIELDS comes next. He was a member of the former Central Park Commission; a great worker; a live man, equal to any emergency in politics; of bold and comprehensive ideas of the value of property north of the Central Park; said to be rather imprudent in manner. He does his own thinking, and acts accordingly.

ANDREW H. GREEN, the last on the list, is too widely known for his varied requirements, modest deportment, and liberal breadth of views, to render a description necessary. His experience and judgment ought to be of great value to the Commission.

In regard to the Morningside Park, we submit that a plan for its improvement, combining a series of terraces, would probably be the most appropriate. In our opinion, it should be a grand flower garden, and no trees admitted that could be classed otherwise than as shrubbery. It could be made the Botanical Garden. On the western line, a high wrought-iron fence would be required to protect it from the carriage drive. As the narrowness of the Park, and its peculiar formation, will entirely exclude carriages, the walking walks to the respective terraces will be narrow, and adapted for the use of pedestrians only. In all its prominent features, its treatment should be different from that of the Central Park.

It seems strange that owners of property to let will permit the defacing, every year or two, of their houses by having the sign "to let" plastered upon the most conspicuous place on the building. Undoubtedly this serves as an advertisement, the profit of which, though, to the owner, is very questionable. In many localities where there are four or five houses near to each other on which this sign is displayed, its effect is the opposite of the intentions of the owner, as parties in search of a house immediately suspect there is something wrong about the neighborhood, and so avoid the locality.

The pi-

The demand for cement has continued strong, and the ordinary grades of good cement can be had readily at the usual price. If the demand for the second-class continues the same, in a few months there will be a considerable surplus; but the full opening of the market is nearly; and the owners of this material should not be unduly anxious.\n
A good building of contemplation is certainly, and there is yet considerable finishing up to be done, but there is not that hurry about pushing matters, or recklessness in respect to cost, that would have continued last fall, and sellers should begin to understand that business is losing the speculative attributes, and settling down rapidly to the in-

Our business has been greatly encouraged by the present active market,—the spirited manner in which the demand has been sustained for the past month, and the tendency of the market to hold steady in the face of increased supplies.

DEALS.—The parable of ‘pulvis pila’ pleb. * Julius A. Hatfield,* New York, on the parable of ‘pulvis pila’ and the modern market firm.

LUMBER.—The price of white pine and one million cubic feet Red or Norway Pine Timber will find their way to the Quebec market this year in greater quantity than in any previous year. A large number of timber ships were recently in the harbor of Quebec, and the expected delivery of these ships will add to the existing supply of timber, thus helping to keep prices moderate.

In the Ottawa district there has been a great movement of timber, both for domestic and export purposes. The demand is increasing, and the prices are rising accordingly.

Government has done all that could be expected to help and facilitate the normal operation of the industry. The timber industry is a vital part of the Canadian economy, and every effort is being made to ensure its continued growth and development.

We trust in our next report to be in a position to give figures of what has actually been done, but we expect to present in our next report the new cut at 6 million pieces, and 15 million cubic feet old logs, and the movement of the past year, though not later than the end of the year, has been steady.

On the North Shore of St. Lawrence the lumbering has been very good; there was plenty of snow, but there is a continuing demand for lumber for the local demand.

On the South shore, the snow has already disappeared, and there may be a difference in the growth of the trees. It is evident that a large proportion of the trees will be cut this year. The spring is coming early, and we have some heavy movements of logs made in other sections by manufacturers of this district, with the idea of getting them to the markets at the earliest possible time, and thus keep their mills from lying idle this summer.

Several of the mills, however, whose logs have stood in the woods since last fall, are preparing to work full strength by the end of the month, and will be in production then.

In Western Canada there has been a very good snow season, barely half the usual quantity of logs have been out and mill men are very busy.

There are still in the province of Quebec 103 millions of uncut trees in the forest. The lands are being disposed of by the Government, and the land is being used for the purpose of timbering.

For the lumber price paid averages $1.00 per square mile and a good supply of good lumber is always available for shipment. It is employed every year in the Province in lumber operations.

The following report is on the St. Louis lumber market:

We note an improved business both at the depot and on the Lumber Exchange. There have been several active sales of pine flooring, and all offerings were "picked up" at stiff rates.

Yellow pine topping at $35.00, common grade, and $25.00 for fair to choice do. At $35.00 for fair to choice dry lumber, and $30.00 choice, is being quoted in the market.

On 10,469,779 cords of lumber, and 100,000 board feet of wood, in the Boston market, as a result of the shipment of lumber from the West to the East.

In the lumber market, we are encouraged by the active demand for lumber, which is the result of the increased demand for building material, and the decrease in the supply of lumber, which is due to the scarcity of wood.

As to the future, we look for an improvement in the market, and hope to see a continued demand for lumber, as the construction of buildings is on the increase, and the demand for lumber is increasing.

EASTERN MARKET.—The market continues to be active, and the demand for lumber is steady.

We note a very active market at the present time, and expect a continuation of the present good demand.

On the East Coast, the market is active, and the demand for lumber is increasing, which is due to the scarcity of wood, and the increase in the demand for building material.
