THE SUMMER MARKETS.

We will forego any recurrence to the stereotyped phraseology of the market reviewer concerning torpor, depression and stagnation, for one reason that the public have ere now spelled off those words in bitter syllables and become experimentally acquainted with their significance and import; and for the other and more adequate reason that, in some respects, they fail to reflect the actual condition of our several markets. It is true there is a total absence of all speculative spirit and intent. In fact, in the whole history of our real estate market there was never a period marked by such a complete elimination of speculative disposition or effort. The policies, purposes and plans of the speculator have become as much matters of ancient history as the wars of the revolution and rebellion, and are referred to chiefly for uses of criticism and commentary. The natural and legitimate forces of the business are slowly and surely exerting themselves in compelling no small degree of activity. It would misrepresent our markets to describe them as any longer lying prone and helpless under the shock of disaster which still paralyzes and cripples so many important branches of general business.

The dead-lock which held our several markets spell-bound for such a length of time, has quietly and fairly yielded during the present year to the genial and quickening influences of practical sense and sound commercial policy. The undertone of each of our respective markets is strongly impregnated with conservatism, prudence, caution, the very bottom stones of substantial prosperity. The one branch of the market which has failed to experience any recuperating or reviving influence is that of vacant lots, particularly when lying out in inaccessible locations; even improvable lots show an unchecked decline in current sales, while the character of much of the building activity now being developed fails to justify the forecast of any immediate upward tendency in prices.

For weal or for woe the activities of the real estate market seem to have disentangled themselves from the general mesh of calamity, and are once more starting into what we would fain believe to be a healthy, natural and independent motion. But for the chronic clamor and ceaseless complaining we are accustomed to hear in business circles, we should esteem the present volume of real estate transactions aside from liquidation and settlement as approximating the normal The rotten and worthless timber that standard. has long since been condemned and discarded is gradually being disengaged from the live and sound body of the market and thrown far up on the shores of time. Corporations that have waited with heroic fortitude, but in vain, for a renewal of real estate speculation, to justify their bad investments on mortgage, have decided to wait no longer. By the way they have pressed their foreclosure suits since the first of January they seem determined to get through with them during the present year.

In the rent market the great struggle, which ensued between landlords and tenants prior to the first of May, resulted in such universal and marked concessions on the part of the landlords as to indicate quite a panic to secure eligible and solvent tenants. In consequence, the present season has witnessed the exchanging of a greater number of new leases than in any other within the last five years. The good effect of this harmonizing of views is shown in the spirit and liveliness which characterize our leading business thoroughfares, where few vacancies are now to be found; many of the premises seeming to bristle with an unwonted degree of trade activity.

It is a noteworthy fact also that because of this returning reason of landlords, fewer private dwellings were left tenantless after the first of May than at any time since the panic. At such concessions as landlords were compelled or were willing to make, a sufficient number of ready tenants appeared to secure the houses offered. It is the testimony of leading agents and landlords that nothing but a difference in views prevented the renting of all their apartments and houses. Very few landlords fail to be actuated by considerations of their own interest as well as by wise counsel, hence the resulting surplus of empty houses, likely to be carried over to the fall market, is exceedingly small. The eagerness with which houses have been hired or bought when offered at reduced prices, has tempted many of our leading builders to initiate new schemes of building enterprise in the expectation of being able to cater to this revived demand through the advantages that are now offered in the way of cheap land, labor and materials.

So far as the renting of property is concerned. we feel warranted in declaring our conviction, after no little investigation into the subject, that no one need fail of securing either an eligible tenant or a reasonably satisfactory rent for good, improved and well located property in this city. There never was a time so calculated to test the renting qualities of New York property as the present, and it is the highest encomium that can be bestowed upon it, as well as a significant commentary upon the whole subject of our real estate, that the rent market has borne the brunt of oppressing and adverse circumstances with a spirit and obstinacy that can be predicated of no other market commodity. Our leading landlords have exhibited in no small degree the wisdom and shrewdness which usually characterizes them in relinquishing old and obsolete standards of rental valuations and conforming their terms to the altered state of business and general affairs. Under the present unequal and crude conditions of our tax system, the landlords like the publicans of old, have the taxes farmed out to them, and are allowed to reassess them upon lessees. It is no deep reproach to our landlords to assert that they have taken full advantage of this privilege in the past, and have sought to collect from tenants not only the full measure of taxation, which they were required to bear, but a goodly bonus besides. Landlords have at last realized that there is such a thing as killing the goose that lays the golden egg, and that no more effectual means exist, no more oppressive or exclusive tax or tariff system can be devised, than that of levying high rents upon business men and housekeepers. In a city like New York where the titles of property are distributed among not more than twenty thousand persons against a population of considerably over a million, it will be readily seen that it lies in the power of a strong but small minority to wit: the landowners, to effectually cripple, if not destroy, the prosperity of the city, although at the same time they thus destroy the productiveness of their own property. The era of low rents, however, which is now setting in promises to relieve us of any such alarming apprehensions, as it will confer upon our great and energetic population this precious boon—ability to live and carry on business at moderate cost.

In the loan market the volume of loanable funds is large and seemingly unlimited, resulting in the universal reduction of the standard rate for prime loans from seven to six per cent. This reduc tion has been conceded for a year past by private capitalists, and has enabled them to secure many choice loans and reliable investments. monied institutions through obstinacy, perversity or, perhaps, necessity, united together with the avowed determination of resisting this innovation upon one of their recognized rights and prerogatives. Undoubtedly, the loss of one per cent. on the mortgage loans of our great corporations results in a heavy reduction of income, and is perhaps an effect of the hard times, which they least expected and would gladly have avoided. Even their combined strength, which arrayed itself in stubborn opposition to prudent borrowers. has been obliged to succumb to the inexorable logic of events and the natural laws of trade. We are happy to announce to our readers that the crusade which was initiated over a year ago in these columns, in favor of cheaper money on mortgage loans, has resulted in a complete success, and that the principal loaning institutions not only offer their funds at six per cent., but consent to make their action retroactive and reduce the rate on all existing loans which are considered "gilt-edged" at the present time. It is noteworthy that the two largest institutions in the city, the Mutual and the Equitable, extend an other valuable concession to borrowers of their funds in not allowing any legal fees to be charged in connection with their loans, except the actual disbursements for official searches at the City Hall. There is no reason why this custom should not become universal with all monied institutions which enjoy such valuable franchises and exemptions at the hands of the people, and make so little and often such unworthy returns. The Legislature should pass an act requiring all loaning institutions to employ counsel on salary for the examination of titles, and forbid them to charge any fee for such services, or to exact from the borrower any payments but for searches and

It is true that some of the smaller institutions profess a reluctance to concur in the six per cent. movement, and still pretend to antagonize it. But it is sufficient commentary on these pretensions to state that many of these institutions have not made any loans on real estate for over a year, probably preferring to husband their resources or hold them in negotiable shape in view of any contingencies which may arise in their own affairs or in the general money market. We assert it upon sufficient knowledge and authority that six per cent. is to-day the ruling rate with private capitalists and leading public institutions. No person wishing to borrow or owing a mortgage of reasonable amount on good property need trouble himself about paying more than six per cent.

It is imagined by some that this reduction of rate by public institutions will interfere with the investment of private funds. A little reflection, however, will prove this to be a mistake. These institutions were actually coerced into a reduction of their rate in order to preserve their best mortgages, which were gradually being drawn away from them by private capitalists. But few of the institutions are allowed, by their charters, to make loans for more than a year, and this early maturity of their mortgages will enable them to advance the rate of interest to seven per cent. as soon as the condition of the money market will justify it. In order to get the full benefit of the present low rates of money it is necessary for the borrower to have a contract for a term of yearsthree, five or ten, as the case may be. This point the borrowers will be ready enough to perceive, and will avail themselves of the proffers of time contracts that are now so freely made by private capitalists. Such institutions as are able will be compelled to enter into these time contracts, in order to save their best mortgages, while others will have no little trouble to persuade their mortgagors it is to their interest to leave such an important and delicate question to the discretion of corporate officers.

In the sales market the most notable feature is that of the total absence of speculation or speculative proclivities. The bird of bright plumage that in days gone by attracted our admiring gaze, has flown so far away into the empyrean as to be indiscernible. The vacant lots on the east and west side of the Park, that were once deemed to be ribbed and bound in gold, are so little thought of now as scarcely to claim passing thought or notice from the merchant or speculator, except to illustrate the vicissitudes of human affairs and the uncertainty of human calculations.

As in the great world of business affairs the impulses of revived life come from the farmers, so, in matters of real estate, the first energetic impulses of reaction come from the builders. The sole activity in the sales department consists in the operations of builders in buying lots, building houses and, so far as they are able, in disposing of the houses when completed. It is currently reported that there are now 800 new buildings in course of erection within corporate limits. It would be safe to say that these represent an amount of active capital varying from eight to ten millions of dollars, apart from the land values, illustrating the recuperative force of our master mechanics, and the abiding confidence which prevails in the minds of our capitalists touching the reliability of real estate. It would afford us supreme satisfaction to be able to say of all what we may predicate of a goodly share of this business, that it is conducted upon sound conservative and commercial principles. No small measure of this activity represents the investment of private funds, taking the form, in many cases, of the plain tenement house or store and tenement house, erected for an owner of moderate means, who expects to derive in rentals therefrom a comfortable though modest livelihood, and in other cases running through all the various gradations of buildings which are chosen for investment, until we reach the costly insurance edifice being erected on Jauncey court, and the palatial warerooms of the Van Beuren and Gibert estates on Union square, the stately apartment buildings of Webband Ottendorfer on Fifth and Fourth avenues. A small number of dwelling houses are being erected by landowners for the purpose of renting, but absurdly disproportioned to the growth of population and the prospective demand. We would say that out of nearly 500 dwelling houses now being erected by builders for purpose of sale, only seventeen are being built without the assistance of what is called a building loan, and those seventeen are in the hands of one firm of master builders.

Here, we think, we have opened up an instructive point of view from which to regard the present ebullition of building activity in this city. This remarkable prevalence of the building loan would indicate either that it is indispensable to the prosecution of the business, or that it is a popular method of conducting it.

It grieves us to say, after a careful examination of the merits of many of these operations, that a few of them seem to be lacking in the prime essentials of sound business enterprises; and, in one or two instances, at least, we seemed to detect the germs of incipient bankruptcy. That is to say, comparing the prices alleged to have been paid for the land with the prices that the completed property, when improved, is likely to realize, being guided in such estimates by the more recent transactions in improved property, we fail to command the requisite mathematical ability to figure out any resulting profit. On the contrary, the figures, which rarely tell an untruth, indicate a considerable, if not ruinous loss. If loss should occur upon these transactions, although, of course, not contemplated or taken into account at the present time, such things being foreign to the early stages of a new enterprise, it becomes an interesting conundrum to know upon whom this loss is likely to fall. It is but reasonable to suppose that the landowner and money lender, with the aid of an astute counsel, will manage to escape calamity. The builder can hardly expect to go "scot free," except through practices that are contrary to commercial rectitude, however hard it may be for him to accept all the loss and permit everybody else to walk off with their dues. We apprehend that the major share of the loss must be borne by the creditors—the mechanics and material men who are innocently drawn into such schemes-and throw their property and capital into the pool relying upon the financial soundness of the enterprise. The avoidance of such calamities depends wholly upon the material men and the mechanics themselves. It is, after all, their duty to determine whether a transaction is based on sound financial principles, by timely and adequate examination, so that false or fraudulent schemes may be nipped in the bud before any damage is done or loss accrues. As long as material men, brick and lumber dealers consent to furnish their goods to over confident or reckless builders, or to those who are prosecuting schemes that are lacking in commercial merit, so long must we continue to hear of disasters in the building line, and so long will struggling mechanics and confiding contractors continue to deplore their bitter and ruinous losses. Capitalists are only too eager to part with their lots at high prices, and will hold out tempting inducements in the shape of large loans to whoever will run the gauntlet of risk in the transaction. Appearances are deceptive, and never more so than in the initial stages of a building enterprise. We desire to impress upon our foremost material men such as Candee, Nesbit, Peck, Watrous, Bell, Havens and a dozen others whom we could name, men recognized above their fellows as shrewd and clear headed business men, that they should scrutinize with closest care the intrinsic merits of building loan transactions with a view to determining their financial outlook, as upon their action once taken, hangs the fate of many an industrious mechanic and workingman not gifted with the abilities or opportunities for studying the details of these transactions, and unfitted or unable to cope with their resulting difficulties.

There is a fair, not to say a lively demand for new houses, but they must stand the test of the most rigid examination as to quality, arrangement and location. The best properties are taken first, and from transactions of which we are authentically informed, we know that the prices realized are quite satisfactory to the builders, leaving them a fair, though moderate profit. Most of the houses built south of Fifty-ninth street during the past year, have met with prompt and ready sale. Sales are more difficult north of Fifty-ninth street, but we not infrequently hear of transactions in that quarter, which indicate there is a disposition for pioneering still abroad among our people.

LEGAL DECISIONS.

Felix Heyman applied to one Patzel, a broker, for a loan of $12,000 to be secured by a first mortgage on Heyman's real estate. Patzel called on M. & L. Josepthal and solicited the loan from them. They looked at the premises and informed Patzel that A. Levinger was their attorney "to examine the title." Patzel referred Heyman to Levinger with whom he left the title papers. Heyman executed a bond and mortgage to secure Heyman executed a bond and mortgage to secure the payment of $12,000, and left the same with Levinger. The Josepthals on receiving the bonds sent to Levinger two checks, for $6,000 each, payable to the order of Heyman; one check drawn by M. Josepthal, and the other by M. & L. Josepthal—the checks being so drawn to indicate to them between themselves severet interests in to them, between themselves, separate interests in the loan. Levinger handed both checks to Hey-man, who, retaining one, indorsed and delivered sack to Levinger the other, with his own check for $1,245, to pay and satisfy an existing mortgage on the premises for $7,500, held and owned by another person. Levinger said to Heyman, "that other person. Levinger said to Heyman, "that he was not allowed to give the money until the first mortgage was paid, and that he was to retain the money to pay the first mortgage." He said this when he handed the checks to Heyman, said this when he handed the checks to Heyman, whereupon Heyman indorsed and redelivered to Levinger the $6,000 check, making up the deficiency with his own check. Levinger appropriated to his own use the amount of the two checks handed to him by Heyman, and did not pay the first mortgage, which is still outstanding. Levinger has absconded. This action is brought for a foreclosure of the $12,000 mortgage. Heyman claims to have received but $5,000 on the mortgage, which amount he claims to have tenmortgage, which amount he claims to have ten-dered and has paid into Court. A judgment of foreclosure was granted on the ground that the foreclosure was granted on the ground that the employment by a person about to loan money of an attorney "to examine the title" of the premises, upon which a mortgage is to be made does not necessarily make the attorney the agent of the person employing him, to receive money from others, to pay off liens and incumbrances, or render him liable for the misappropriation of moneys so received. The specific employment to examine a title, does not, in itself, include the duty or obligation of satisfying liens; it is discharged by rully agertaining and renorting them. An attorfully ascertaining and reporting them. An attorney at law may be furnished with moneys to invest by way of mortgage for his principal. In such case under a general employment for such purposes, he would indeed be the agent of his principoses, he would indeed be the agent of his principal, and might be held responsible to the borrower for any funds kept back to satisfy prior incumbrances, and which the attorney did not discharge, but in this case the contract of loan was made not with Levinger, but with the Josepthals themselves. Levinger was intrusted with no money. His sole duty was to "examine the title." The fact that the checks were drawn to Hevman's order shows that the money was de-Heyman's order shows that the money was designed for his use, and not subject to Levinger's control. He did not act as Josepthal's agent in receiving the check and money from Heyman.

ASSESSMENT OF PERSONAL PROPERTY.

John T. Haneman was assessed the sum of $50, 000 for personal property owned by him.

applied to the Commissioners to vacate the assess applied to the Commissioners to vacate the assessment, for the reason that his personal estate, amounting in the aggregate to the sum of $125,000, with the exception of the sum of $5,500, consisted of money "continuously employed in the business of exporting cotton from the United States to foreign countries through the Customs Department, and that said employment consisted in purchasing and paying for the cotton in different States, and for the payment of the expenses of shipping the same as such exports." That "the sum of $115,000 is continuously invested in cotton of the growth of the United States, which cotton of the growth of the United States, which has been cleared at a custom house, and is on shipboard in course of exportation to some foreign state or country." It was claimed that the assessment violated three provisions of the Constitution. Ist. That Congress shall have power "to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several states." In answer to this objection the Court holds that the imposition of a tax upon capital can, in no proper sense, be affirmed to be a regulation of commerce. 2d. It was further insisted that the tax contravened the was further missted that the tax contravened the provisions of the Constitution declaring that "no tax or duty shall be laid on articles exported from any State," and "that no State shall lay any duties on imports or exports." Touching this objection the Court holds that the assessment was not made upon or of the property purchased and exported by Mr. Happener, or upon the best and exported by Mr. Haneman, or upon the business in which he was engaged. It was his capital as distinguished from what it might be invested in, or from the business he transacted by means of it, which was made the object of the assessment. And that in no case has it been held to be exonerated by anything contained in the Federal Constitution. The assessment was made alone upon it, simply as so much personal estate, without reference to the advantages which might accrue by means of its profitable employment. That use of it was not proposed to be assessed or taxed. It was regarded, as it was in fact, as so much property owned by him, and for that reason liable to taxation. He was assessed simreason hable to taxation. He was assessed simply as the owner of personal property, and neither directly or indirectly, because of the uses he might make of it. The money of which his estate consisted, was not an export and not intended for exportation. Taxation upon capital has not yet been considered a tax upon exports, even when the capital has been employed in business of that description, and such a tax is distinguishable from one upon the articles. If capital, wholly or partially employed in foreign commerce, were relieved from taxation, then every merce, were relieved from taxation, then every person engaged in that business would be entitled to exemption from taxation, and the same principal would practically comprehend the trade carried on between the states. No more serious blow could be given to the power of the State to tax the property owned by its citizens; for so far as it should not be employed in mere local traffic, it would escape taxation, that would include all products shipped to foreign countries include all products shipped to foreign countries from one State to another, and all importations made from abroad. So great an exemption as that has not been made by anything contained in the Federal Constitution. It has merely exonerated the products of the state of the contribution of the state of the contribution of the state of the contribution of the state of the contribution. ated the articles themselves, which may be exported or imported, but not the capital by means of which the title to them may have been acauired.

MARKET REVIEW.

REAL ESTATE MARKET.

Our readers are referred this week to our editorial columns for an extended review of the present condition of the market. The notable transactions at the Exchange Salesroom during the week were, the sale, in partition proceedings, of the two four-story yellow stone stores, known as Nos. 30 and 32 White street, to the heirs of the estate of John B. Schmelzel, for $60,200. The four-story brown stone front house, known as No. 314 West Twenty-third street, belonging to the same estate, brought $19,500. The aggregate amount realized by the sale was $149,450.

On the West side, three lots, each 25x100, on the east side of Riverside avenue, 950 feet north of One Hundred and Twenty-second street, were sold for $9,000.

The notable transfers of the week are, the fourstory iron front store, on the southwest corner of Broadway and Howard street, which was bought by Mr. Solomon Loeb for $350,000, and the four-story brick theatre, situated on Sixteenth street, between Union place and Fifth avenue, the title to which has been taken by the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen. The list of advertised legal sales for the coming week is unusually large, and, in connection with these sales, we direct attention to the fact that in such list we now give, and, in the future, shall furnish a full description of the character of the improvement, if any, on any lot so advertised for sale. whether under foreclosure proceedings or by public auction, at the instance of the owners. We have already given this information in connection with the published list of conveyances recorded in this city. and we now propose to extend this valuable information to the advertised sales.

In an article which appeared in this journal a few weeks ago, headed "Auction Sales of Real Estate," reference was made to the sale by the Morris estate of a number of lots, by order of the executors. In our comments on such sale, it was stated that at that date it still remained an open question as to the number of lots actually disposed of, although the whole number were struck down to apparent purchasers. Since such article was written, the executor has requested us to state that the deeds for the convevance of the property so sold have been passed to the purchasers with one exception, which the buyer refused on account of an alleged defect of the title. The records at the Register's office show the recording of all these purchases, with the exception above named, and one other. Mr. John F. Doyle, representing the estate of James J. Jones, deceased, and the estate of William H. Morris, deceased, desires us to inform our readers that these estates have never offered any property belonging to them for sale, and that such estates must not be confounded with the "Jones estate" and "Morris estate," a portion of whose property was recently offered for sale.

Nine plans embracing sixteen buildings were filed with the Superintendent of the Department of Buildings, for the week ending July 26, 1877, at an estimated cost of $156,300. The character and separate cost of such buildings will be found in the list of Projected Buildings, published in another column.

The subjoined table shows the number of deeds and mortgages filed for record with the Register of the City and County of New York, during the six days ending July 24, 1877, and the amounts involved:

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.-Following the writing of our last, the demand for common hards was very fair, and the demand for common hards was very fair, and the offerings not proving large, a firmer tone gained currency which eventually resulted in what dealers claimed as an advance of 25c. per M. the average sales of Haverstraw stan-ling at $5.25 against $5 previously. The improvement, however, while it did not positively drive away buyers, made them more cautious, and at the same time drew in a large supply the result of which was a toning down again, and outside rates quite difficult to realize. Beyond this there does not appear to be anything positively new on the market for the week. Current rates are still reported as unsatisfactory to the manufacturer, and the probabilities of combinations to hold back stocks, etc., are discussed, but as yet no very positive action appears to have been taken in this matter. Pale brick are meeting with about an average demand, but not sufficient to add to former values. Croton fronts are without change on quotations, but the tone rather lacks strength, and even the favorite makes, which have heretofore held closely to the ruling figures could now, in all probability, be secured at a slight shading on full orders. Fancy fronts are dull. We quote: Pale, per M. $2.50@2.75; Hards, Up-Rivers, $4.00@4.50; Haverstraw bay, $4.75@5.25; Favorite brands, $5.50@6; Fronts, Croton—brown, $8; dark, $9; red, $10; Philadelphia, $23@27; Baltimore, $34@38. Yard prices, delivery included, $2@3 higher on ordinary and $5@6 on fronts. offerings not proving large, a firmer tone gained cur-

GLASS.—The attendance of buyers does not greatly increase, and business fails to settle into fully encouraging shape. Mail orders are a little more plenty and aging shape. Man orders are a fittle more pienty and occasionally a customer drops in to make a personal selection, but dealers complain of the distribution as running alrogether too moderate against the stock they have accumulated, and the general condition of the market is evidently far from satisfactory. The railroad war also has had a tendency to check movements to the interior. Nominally there is no change in prices for either foreign or domestic, but the tone is a little slack and the buyer has most of the advantage.

HARDWARE.-The demand continues somewhat irregular, but there is a little more business doing in the aggregate, and while it is as yet early to expect the aggregate, and while it is as yet early to expect much animation, dealers are encouraged by what they consider the favorable indications. Stocks in the interior are reduced, and the attractions to replace them in the way of assortments offering and the cost thereof are great, which leads to the hope that buyers will be somewhat more liberal with their orders this fall. Since our last there has been no further changes on values worthy of note in this column. Much irregularity exists, however, on locks and screws, but the general tendency is favorable to buyers.

LABOR—THE STRIKES.—Details of the appalling condition of affairs throughout the country are already too familiar to our readers to require repetition here. Neither do we propose to travel over the old arguments regarding the Trades Unions strikes their utter futility as a means to the end sought, and the reckless adhesion of the workmen to leaders who precipitate them into open breakers of the public peace. These subjects were treated upon, years ago by the RECORD, and have since been so thoroughly ventilated by the general Press of the country, it is safe to assume that all law abiding citizens, understand, deprecate and resist strikes, as they have been conducted, not as a contest between labor and capital, but as a contest of employed workmen against the unemployed. It is this and nothing else. Those men who have good positions and good pay find that the unemployed are willing to exchange places at a reduced line of wages, therefore they "strike," and endeavor to protect their position and their pay by violence, and still force the unemployed to go on and starve. One class of workmen is willing to take what it can get and secure employment, but with threats, clubs and firearms is driven off by another class unwilling to take what it can get, or to allow any one else to enjoy the privilege. Which deserves the most pity?

Bad as the old form of strikes was, however, the present outbreak has an even more terrible significance to a large portion of the thinking community. The extent and apparent system of the movement, and the form it has assumed, the moment any open rupture occured, all point to an underlaying spirit of darker and more devlish import than that generally to be expected on an ordinary misunderstanding between employers and employee. In fact the workingmen have been simply used as a tool, it is believed, to open the way for the machinations of the Commune. What this means the latest pages of French history already record, and we have further evidences in the violent and incendiary harangues of the blatant lunaties who boldly announce themselves in our midst, as Communistic leaders. Hedge it around with specious arguments all they will, they cannot conceal the fact that the culmination of Communism is rapine, plunder, arson and murder, and the latter especially directed against the lives of those who defend public order. We do not wish to be considered alarmists in this matter, but we are simply expressing the views of a large number of our citizens who have carefully watched the progress of events. Their conclusions are that the troubles are due solely to the enemies of all rights of property whatsover, and who desire to wipe out and destroy all law and governments tending to protect and defend those rights. Shall they succeed? A perfect police and military system may protect certain points, and it is thought will conquer soon all present difficulties, but it behooves every property holder in the land to see to it that no opportunity for a repetition occur. Communism is a vicious, hydra-headed monster whose only suppression is obliteration, and if, as surmised, it be at the bottom of present strikes, so called, the Government, if possible, and the respectable citizenship of the country if necessary, should rise in their might and hurl the polluting theory into everlasting oblivion. No fear about injury to the interests of intelligent or skilled labor by such a course. This is not to be found in the ranks of a society where the leaders are supplied with but a modicum of addled brains, and the fol-lowers with none at all beyond such as may be suffi-cient to direct their brute passions.

LATH.—The market has continued to show a pretty firm tone, but for the period intervening since our last report business was rather moderate consequent upon report business was rather moderate consequent upon the reduced amount of supplies. Most dealers with whom we have conversed exhibit a feeling of confidence, and aside from minor fluctuations through temporary causes seem to expect a comparatively full range on prices. Dependence is placed on a good local call, and a few sellers claim that near-by points to which re-shipments are common also want stock while at the same time it is asserted that receipts canot become too excessive to handle easily, if reports of proposed shipments hither are correct. About $1.55@1.60 were quotations named up to the present writing.

LIME.-There is no change reported on this market up to the present writing. Eastern is inquired ket up to the present writing. Eastern is inquired after to some extent, and probably a little more could be placed, if here, without difficulty, but neither the demand or the price buyers are willing to pay, offer inducements to manufacturers for much of an increase of shipments. State lime is in much the same condition, a moderate distribution making to the regular outlets and receivers keeping the offering within the compass of the outlet. One of the State companies we understand has stopped burning lime and commenced the production of brick. The troubles with railroad strikers have not influenced receipts, as these come mostly via canal. Generally prices remain as last quoted.

LUMBER.—There is not much change of a decided character on the general market for the week. Such stock of attractive quality as came to hand was placed at former figures, and the tone on leading grades is maintained to a steady point, but the outlet offered was not sufficient to have exhausted any additional supply of magnitude, and buyers draw away when a higher cost is hinted at. The difficulties growing out of the strikes, while not directly touching the lumber market as a whole, have influenced some of the sources of supply, and also tended to infuse a nervous apprehension that all labor may become involved and the commercial community thrown into a condition of great uncertainty, if not serious danger. People who have goods will not sacrifice them if they can help it, of course, but not many are disposed to make additions to accumulations for the present. The foreign distribution of stock from this point is moderately active, only live orders for shipment direct from primary markets continue fair. Even in the face of rather discouraging advices, the English markets do not appear to offer many temptations for random shipments, as shown in an extract from the Timber Trades Journal, in another column, and South America is not much tetter. Wright's last mail advices from Rio Janeiro reporting:

Pitch Pine Deals—Cargoes have been retailed at 31[000 $\frac{2}{3}$ doz., but the market closes dull, and it would be difficult to-day to obtain 30[000 $\frac{2}{3}$ doz., 14 by 3 by 9 for prime cargoes, to net G. $\frac{2}{3}$ & $\frac{2}{3}$ (100 feet.

Yellow Pine inclines to a gradual gain of tone on good attractive specifications and special orders. Opportunities to obtain supplies are gradually diminishing, and though the demand does not show animation or anxiety, buyers are becoming somewhat more deeply interested. Randoms of undesirable grade have little chance except at a low range. Orders for cargoes to be shipped from Southern ports direct are in fair number, but not many of them reach outside prices. We quote random cargoes at $18@22 \(\mathbb{P}\) M; ordered cargoes, $21@24 do.; green flooring boards, $20@22 do.; and dry do. do., $22@24. Cargoes at the South, $14.50@16.00 \(\mathbb{P}\) M; hewn timber, 24@25c, per cubic foot.

Hardwoods continue to come forward moderately on direct contract with points at the West, and in a few cases the receipts continue their journey to Europe mainly to the Continent. The general open demand here, however, is very moderate, and a few car loads extra would form a surplus accumulation difficult to dispose of. Arrivals and offerings generally have been checked this week by the troubles on the railroads. We quote wholesale rates by car load about as follows: Walnut, $70@77.50 per M; ash, $33@36 do.; oak, $35@40 do.; maple, $32@35; chestnut, 1st and 2d, $30@35 do. do., culls, $18@20 do.; cherry, $45@75 do.; white wood, ½ and 5% inch, $25@37.50, and do inch, $33@35 do.; hickory. $25@30 do. for Western, and $40@50 for good near-by stock.

The retail trade is a little better if anything. Some of the yards have a dull look, but most of the leading dealers are securing a fair attendance of customers, and turning out more or less stock daily. Values on a general range are quoted about as before, with, however, many allowances to be made for quantity, time of payment, etc., etc., cash customers, of course, having decided advantages.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

The Lumberman's Gazette reports as follows: BAY CITY, Wednesday July 18, 1877.

Taking everything into account, the past week has Taking everything into account, the past week has been a very satisfactory one so far as sales are concerned. Indeed, since the first of June, trade on the river and shore has been good, and the amount shipped has surpassed general expectations, though prices have continued ruinously low, the prospects of a large shortage appearing to have no influence upon holders. In the very face of a prospective shortage stock has been and is now selling at $5, $10 and $28, while orders have been taken at even lower rates, for some unaccountable reason, though the stock was not of the best. This shows how difficult it is to advance prices on a prospective shrinkage, and it is likely nothing but a positive shortage fully felt will bring the much desired rise.

Operators, as a general rule, are in good spirits and very hopeful for a vigorous fall demand, basing their belief upon the fine crop prospect and the likely foreign requirements therefor. Dealers and manufacturers are alike in their opinion on this subject, both looking for a healthy fall market and more remunerative prices.

This accounts in part for the very considerable purchases which have been made in the last 30 days by distributors from various parts, though why owners are so ready to sell at such low figures, it is hard to say, without they feel the need of money, and regard a bird in the hand worth two in the bush.

There has been an extensive call of late for rough stock for box making, mostly by eastern parties, and contracts have been made for considerable amounts at $7 per thousand.

Uppers still continues weak, and we hear of some sales as low as $25 where the other grades brought $5 been a very satisfactory one so far as sales are con-at $7 per thousand. Uppers still continues weak, and we hear of some sales as low as $25 where the other grades brought $5 and $10.

The shingle trade remaining unchanged, country and river brands still hold at quotations below.

Among the actual valley sales we note: 1,500,000 green mill run, $5-10-25; 2,000,000 dry do. $5.50-11-28; 400,000 dry coarse, $4.50-9-25; 500,000 dry, $5.50-11-28; 700,000 shipping cnlls, from railroad, $6.25; 300,000 fine dry, $5-10-28; and very fine green wide. $6-11.50-28; 300,000 Norway strips, $7.50; 1,500,000 mill run, $5-10-25; 1,500,000 p. t.

DRIVING PROSPECTS.

Fair work still continues to be done on the valley streams, and good judges have informed us that not more than 30,000,000 will be left back at the close of this season, though some of the logs may come too late for this fall's sawing. About 220,000,000 have been run from the Tittabawassee, and that boom will probably be clear by the 1st of September.

Emery's logs on the Au Gres are still back but all others are secure. The Rifle will keep back some 2,500,000, and without more rain the Kawkawlin and Au Sable about 10,000,000.

In other portions of the State middling fair work is now being done, and every week dwindles down the amount of "hung up" logs. It is now coming to be generally believed that Michigan streams will yield on the Menominee lumbermen estimate that about 25,000,000, of the 161,000,000 in the river, will not come down, but later rains will doubtless reduce the calcu-

On the Menominee lumbermen estimate that about $2,000,000, of the 161,000,000 in the river, will not come down, but later rains will doubtless reduce the calculation somewhat.

White river looks favorable for 30,000,000.

The percentage of logs that may be secured in Minnesota and Wisconsin is in all probability much below that of Michigan, though recent rains are making the outlook rather more encouraging than was at first indicated, though driving is attended with great expense, risk and uncertainty, which, it is to be hoped, may be rewarded with a sufficient advance in price to reimburse for this extra outlay. A few helping showers have been experienced of late, but their volume was of short duration, and drivers must content themselves with struggling along as best they can, snatching as many as possible from the difficult places when the freshet are full, and working along continually in safe running waters the remainder of the time. From this section of the country we gather waifs of news, as follows:

Late rains started about 30,000,000 on the Black and tributaries, but the streams are low again and the balance must wait for another rise.

The Wisconsin river continues low, though frequent showers are helping matters somewhat, but the upper streams appear to be hopelessly hung up.

The Chippewa drive appears to be ended, the water having fallen about four feet during the week. There is now, says the News, less than two feet in the channel. It is estimated that between 30,000,000 and 40,000,000 feet of logs belonging to the Mississippi River Logging Company have passed down the river. It is probable that 20,000 to 10,000,000 feet of logs of 4,000,000 run out, the amount of old and new logs run from the Chippewa this season, according to the Lumberman and Manufacturer, is 200,700,000. Last year the crop was estimated at 484,000,000 run out, the amount of old only passed down.

The London Timber Trades Journal contains the following;
London, July 6th, 1877.—In another part of this journal we give the returns of the wood in store at the various docks, and our readers will be able to see from them that there is no great glut of timber in this market at present. Although the sum total is rather in favor of this year the difference is not great, and principally made up of prepared flooring boards, of which there is no doubt the market is well supplied both from Norway and Sweden; no fewer than 2,180,-324 pieces are now in stock at the Surrey Commercial Docks, as against 1,679,301 last June.

There is less fit timber on hand.

Yellow pine is less by 169 loads. Pitch pine "8,610 "Baltic "2,909 "

But the Swedish is in excess some 200 loads. Of the lard woods there is a good supply, elm being in excess of last June's returns by 1.455 loads. Of oak and ash also there is double as much this June as last. Oak staves there are more; lathwood also was less last year, and yet the price is now higher. The market for staves is dull, and it is not likely that the fresh importations will be excessive; most of the stocks of this class quoted were given in last year's returns. Pitch pine floorings there are none in stock, and last June's returns gave only 2,500 pieces, about 30 stand., a quantity hardly worth taking into consideration, so that we conclude this description finds very little favor here as compared with the better known Swedish and Norwegian. It is somewhat remarkable that, notwithstanding the demand is good for pitch pine timber, and the market not overburdened with it, the price it realizes should be so low. Twelve months ago pitch pine fetched more money in the market than best middling Dantzic, but at the sale on the 27th ult., held by Messrs. Churchill & Sim, the average was 15s. to 20 s. a load better for the Baltic woo't of about 25 feet cube per piece than for the pitch pine of a 100 feet to a stick. This is worth the special attention of the trade, and it will be more discouraging to American shippers if such a state of things continues; for, after paying freight and charges out of 50s. a load, we can scarcely comprehend how anything can remain for first cost. The freight would not be less than 42s. to 45s., and all attendant charges would have to come out of the other 8s. before a penny went for first cost. Those who want to supply themselves with pitch pine should avail themselves of the present favorable time, for nothing is more certain than that no more will be shipped speculatively to such a losing market, and to give almost any price at f. o. b. for it would seem most unwise just now in London. It is highly probable that most of the shipments of this kind of timber will in future be to order at some fair price fixed beforehand; if se, those who have bought here while it was being sacrificed will be able to do well by their bargains. Whatever prejudices there may be against this wood imported as flooring, there is none whatever against it in the balk, therefore it is the more inexplicable that it should be allowed to go so cheap when submitted without reserve at the public auction, except on the supposition that the wood was faulty, which we have reason to know was not the case. The shippers on the other side of the Atlantic would save themselves losses and get the timber forward on better terms if they would sell only to order, as the shippers on this side do. The present system of shipping on market on spec. the Americans must have found by this time is simply throwing their goods away. The great drawback to activity is the uncertainty that still prevails regarding our relations with Russia. All the available vessels have been chartered for the northern ports, and the shipments from St. Petersburg, Riga, and Lower Finland ports will soon come forward. In the meantime the values of these goods is mainly dependent upon what shape events will take within the next two months.

Freights from the southern ports of the Union are stiffer, ranging from 45s. to 49s. to a direct U. K. port, but it seems impossible that these rates should be sustained, looking at the present cost freight and insurance prices of pitch pine in our markets here. This kind of incongruity is not long in finding its level.

LIVERPOOL, July 5, 1877.

The importation of Canadian timber and deals has now set in, but so far the market, generally speaking, is dull, and larger quantities than usual are being stored at this early period of the season.

Good prime qualities of pine timber meet with fair demand, but common appears somewhat neglected, and the same remarks apply to deals. Spruce deals also have a slightly downward tendency, and may to-day be bought on terms that would have been refused a fortnight ago.

Prices of oaks and other hardwoods are in favor of buyers, excepting prime qualities, the stocks of second quality being more than sufficient for the market requirements, and heavy. The lowest point appears to have been reached in the price of birch, but stocks are sufficient for the present.
