MARCH 22, 1884.

Although there is nothing approaching a "boom" the interest in real estate investments steadily increases. The conveyances continue larger than the average of previous years—the auction room is thronged, and the highest prices since the panic of 1873 were paid for property at open auction during the past week. The business of THE RECORD AND GUIDE also tells the same story. We never had so large a subscription list, nor received so many unsolicited new subscribers. Our advertising pages speak for themselves. Readers who keep files will note the difference. So far the year 1884 promises to surpass all its predecessors, not only in the activity of real estate, but in the higher prices and the larger amount of building.

Governor Cleveland has done well in endorsing the Roosevelt bill, giving the appointing power to the Mayor without reference to the Board of Aldermen. This journal can claim to be the first of this city's papers to emphasize the fact that municipal reform involved two things: the deprivation of the local legislature of much of its power, and the lodging in the executive greater authority and responsibility. The curse of the country is its legislatures swarming with lawyers and small politicians. Were it not for the veto power of the Mayors and Governors matters would be intolerable. Mr. Theodore Roosevelt is on the right track. He may be defeated in some of his measures this year, but if we are to have better government it can only come about by greater executive authority and the responsibility of heads of departments to Mayors.

Theodore Roosevelt is the only possible Republican candidate for Mayor next fall. He has literally accomplished wonders, and won the admiration of independent Democrats as well as all Republicans. Mr. Roosevelt could, we think, be re-elected even though he had no other endorsement than that of the Republican party. The cam_ paign he is waging so successfully against civic corruption is popular among all classes of citizens except only those who profit by the misrule under which we have been suffering so long. Seth Low, a Republican, was elected in the Democratic city of Brooklyn twice in succession, although he had the whole Democratic party and the corrupt members of his own party to contend with. The reputable citizens of Brooklyn went to work with a will, and the active business men of any community are always more than a match for the "machines" and the rabble who generally support them. If the great exchanges, the clubs and the commercial bodies were to unite on Mr. Roosevelt, he could be chosen triumphantly. It will be remembered that in all the great contests for Mayor in the past, the best man, or the one considered the best, generally won. At any rate, the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt would force the Democrats to put an unexceptionable candidate in the field, and New York would be sure of a good Mayor in any event.

The House of Representatives has taken such action as it supposes will atone for its blunder in passing the Lasker resolutions. In the meantime it is curious to note that dispatches from Berlin of the 18th inst. state that all parties in the Reichstag had given their support to a proposition to appropriate 18,790,000 marks for the construction of torpedo boats and batteries. The naval department received congratulations from all sides for the celerity with which it had completed a naval fleet. It seems that in 1871, after the war with France, the German navy only numbered 48 vessels, mostly of small size, with 300 guns. In the spring of 1888 the imperial navy consisted of 108 war vessels, carrying 5.8 large guns, with a crew of 12,000 men. In fact all civilized nations are at work increasing their naval strength. As the Herald of this city says : "France is reconstructing her navy; Germany is reorganizing hers; Russia is fast strengthening hers, and Italy is developing a very powerful fleet. All Europe is, in fact, recognizing the necessity of having heavily armored ships, fitted with modern ordnance and carrying trained crews." During 1883 England launched 14 vessels of the most approved patterns, while 12 were ordered to be constructed. The United States alone lags in the rear. The great European cities are inland and are out of gunshot. Ours are on the seacoast, utterly unprotected. We have three vessels under way, which it will take three years to finish, and a cry of wrath has gone up from the press because the Senate has voted in favor of constructing seven new vessels of war. What does Germany want with 108 vessels of war?

The attempt of the leading journals of New York to whitewash the Surrogate's office is exceedingly reprehensible. Lawyers who claim to know say that it is one of the most corrupt departments in the city government. This is a matter which appeals par-ticularly to the patrons of this paper, for once in every twentyeight years property representing the value of all the realty on this island passes through this office in probating wills. The testimony of lawyers who practice in the Surrogate's department is that every probate of a will is charged every fee that can be conjured up. In cases where there is no contest and only one heir, costs are piled up when there is no need of any expense being incurred. Mr. Theodore Roosevelt showed great courage as well as good sense in telling the truth about this Republican department, as well as the Democratic departments. It is surprising to see papers like the Sun excusing the Surrogate for the rank corruption discovered in his department.

A New Hotel.

A very large building, which seems to be meant for a family hotel, occupies the block between Fortieth and Forty-first streets, on the west side of Fourth avenue. It has the block front of 200 feet on the avenue. On Forty-first street it has a frontage of 100 feet, while on Fortieth street it extends back to the distance of 250 feet.

These are dimensions so ample that an elevator building can be put upon it without the spindling look which is inevitable to such a building on a restricted site. The height here is not excessive for an elevator building, only six stories below the main cornice and one above. There are, however, no visible roofs on the main buildings, these being reserved for decorations on the emphatic parts.

Only one of the three fronts, the long front on Fortieth street, is symmetrical, and the dimensions of this would make it susceptible of a very effective treatment. The ends, each two openings wide, are separately roofed and slightly projected, or at least divided from the curtain walls by a round bay window running through to the main cornice, with a flat top. The doorway is in the centre, and the wall over it, one opening wide, is signalized like the pavillions at the ends. The openings of the pavillions are enriched with moulded stone jambs and terra cotta panels between the openings. The central windows are furnished with balconies pro jected upon consoles carved with masks.

The Fourth avenue front is rendered unsymmetrical by the treatment of the south pavillion—where the ground is considerably lower than at the north end—as a tower, running a story higher than the adjacent wall and crowned with a steep roof, which stands on walls on the two outer sides and on an arcade of galvanized iron on the inner side. The chief feature of this front, and indeed of the building, is the principal entrance, a colonnaded portico of three openings, with single columns at the angles, while the intermediate columns are doubled. The central wall above this porch is projected, enriched and gabled.

The shorter front on Forty-first street has the tower already mentioned at one end, with a round bay, similar to the bays of the north side, adjoining. At the west end there is a flat roof.

The materials are granite for the sub-basement, which becomes conspicuous at the north corner, the lines of the stories being carried through level, while the dip of the ground is considerable; Carlisle stone for the basement, the porches and all the wrought work, except the panels in terra cotta, and "pressed red brick for the field of the wall.

The granite is polished except in the chamfers of the lintels and jambs, where it is left rough, and is of course lighter in color. There is no moulded string course to mark the change of material. The granite merely ceases, with a simple chamfer, and the sandstone succeeds, giving the transition an uncouth and unfinished look. The Carlisle stone is a beautiful material, in color and in texture, and better adapted to do justice to good carving than perhaps any other material available to our architects. But it is entirely unsuitable for combination with red trick, and wherever the combination has been attempted it has been to the detriment of both materials.

In composition the elevations are not bad. The horizontal lines are emphasized more perhaps than is necessary to "keep down" a building of an area so ample in proportion to its height, and the fronts are not "pestered" with multiplied features. In avoiding restlessness, however, the architect has not escaped monotony: His scheme would require very interesting detail to make it effective, and in the detail properly architectural there resides no interest whatever. The only piece of architectural modelling in the walls is the moulding of the openings in the first story, which is not ill done. The openings of the upper stories, which are framed in stone, are overloaded, clumsy and inartistic in design, while the openings in brickwork are altogether unmodelled, hard, flat and shallow. In the principal features of the building, the gable, tower and bay windows, the detail is not worth talking about.

What architectural interest the building has is in its decorative sculpture, which shows a much higher order of attainment than the architecture to which it is attached, a difference which is noticeable in many recent buildings. The openings of the first story (all the openings are square headed) have Tudor drip stones, but these, instead of surrounding the window, are absurdly dropped at its sides from a continuous horizontal moulding. The terminations are covered with cherubs, apparently borrowed from English parish churches, while the cornice above is decorated with masks in leafage, which might have been taken from an Italian palace of the sixteenth century. Wherever they come from, they are very good, designed with spirit and carved with precision. The detail of the porches is also carved with great richness and designed in a knowing way, though with no great attention to purity, and the effect, with all its richness, is of a somewhat barbarous profusion. The obviously absurd arrangement in the main porch of single columns at the angles and double columns between, has already been noted. The lower drums of these columns are richly and well carved in luxurious Renaissance. Their capitals are intricate and polyglot in design, though suggested by classic models. A carved frieze of a flowing pattern girdles each of the bays above the first story and the consoles of the balconies carry masks. All of this carving is admirably well executed, and most of it scholarly in design. It is all worth looking at, some of it very well worth looking at, especially the decoration of grotesques above the first story. Apart from this decoration, the building owes what impressiveness it has entirely to its magnitude.

Railway Companies and Ferry Franchises.

A bill recently introduced in the Legislature by Senator Otis granting to railroad companies the privilege of owning ferries, floats, etc., should be made a law without unnecessary delay.

An anomaly in legislation working to the disadvantage of the public service in transportation is found in the condition of our laws regulating the proprietary franchises of railway and ferry companies. The moment a railway in this State touches a stream or other channel of water too broad to be bridged, its functions as an agent in transportation ceases, and its duties must be delegated to other hands.

At first thought this might be regarded as a wise regulation. It seems to imply only another application of the maxims in political science which teach the doctrine of the greatest good to the greatest number. It may have been conceived as a check on the monopoly of service, and designed to distribute the labor and profits of transportation among a greater number of hands. As a matter of practical experience, however, it can only result in the creation of corporate parasites drawing the means of subsistence from the parent stem while exposing it to the most unhealthful and enervating influences. Look, for a moment, at its practical operation. A railway company is not permitted to organize a ferry service nor to own and operate floats for the transportation of its cars. But individual members of the company, shareholders in common with other shareholders not similarly favored, may possess this privilege and utilize it, to the utmost, for their individual profit. That the law tends to encourage the organization of subsidiary companies within the original corporations is too plain for dispute And see what follows. The majority of the shareholders must be hindered from drawing the legitimate profits of their investment while contributing to swell the income of a very limited minority. We may be sure that the ferry franchise will never be permitted to go out of the family. Absolutely, the law steps in here and, if it does not compel a breach of faith on the part of a portion of those who have invested their money in a common enterprise, it at least offers a premium to men who take advantage of their position in the company to increase their receipts at the expense of their partners. But the law is also the protection of these double operators against any reasonable censure. The service must be performed; and by whom will it be more faithfully performed than by a little ring of men interested in the parent enterprise? Certainly, parasites enough have sprung from our system of railroad management without cultivating a legal fungus more troublesome than any other excrescence because more eradicable.

That more attention had not been called to this subject and an amendment made to the law is due to fortuitous circumstances which have yet not worked altogether fortuitously. The State of New York has no broad water ways in the interior, and nearly all the railroads that reach the harbor of this city either demand no permitted to hold ferry franchises. The hardships of our existing regulations have, consequently, not been felt, and we have gone forward under the delusion that there was nothing demanding remedy.

No good argument can be made, however, in favor of a law preventing railroad companies from controlling their ferry connections and owning the necessary equipment for the exercise of this right. Their service can never be adequately rendered, free from legal evasions, until it is in their power to deliver their freight and passengers at the point which is virtually the end of their route.

Over the Ticker.

NVESTORS who bought and held Pacific Mail, by the advice of "Ticker" during the last six months, have made money by doing so. It was 38 when in this column it was said to be a purchase, and it sold for nearly 58 during the past week.

BALTIMORE & OHIO, like Pennsylvania Central, will soon become a New York road, that is, it will extend its termini to this city, and the Baltimore papers are growling about it in advance.

BUT it is impossible to fight destiny. As all roads in the ancient D world lead to Rome, so will all the railways in the new world lead to the metropolis. The Baltimore & Ohio could reach New York by way of the Reading and New Jersey Central. The stock of the latter is to be guaranteed by the B. & O. as well as the Reading, and will be as valuable as a bond, for it will then be worth more than most of them. Look out for better prices in Reading.

KNOWING operators look for a stronger market. They say stocks have been forced down too far and that values are going to assert themselves in Wall street as well as in real estate.

Second Example 2 Constraints offering to do the whole telegraphic busi-G ness of the country is a sublime instance of cheek. A mass meeting ought to be called of the stockholders in the mining companies which he organized to give their opinion as to his ability to transact any business in a satisfactory way.

OMETHING may happen shortly to give a black eye to Western Union. That construction account has to be taken care of. Jay Gould, it seems, is of the opinion that Western Union can stand a large bonded indebtedness.

C., C. & I. 6 per cent. general mortgage is one of the best • bonds now on the market. To show how great the increase in the value of lands owned by railroad companies in cities it is authoritatively stated that the terminals at Cleveland and Indianapolis alone are so valuable that if sold at market prices the proceeds would pay off the total indebtedness of C., C., C. & I. Railway Company.

VANADA SOUTHERN second mortgage bonds at 85 do not seem to be selling at the price they deserve. This company has just completed its new cantilever bridge and is now double tracking the entire road, the total cost for both enterprises being $6,000,000 in bonds. For this the fixed charges against the road are actually increased only $160,000, as the Canada Southern paid the old bridge company $140,000 every year, which amount it now saves. When the double track is completed this road will undoubtedly be made the favorite route for fast traveling.

Mr. O. B. Potter, of this city, is making his mark in Congress. It usually takes from two to three terms before a new member can get the car of the House, but Mr. Potter was not a month in his seat before he had attracted the attention not only of Congress but of the country by the intelligence he displayed on financial questions. His bill relating to the national banks was so wise and timely that it stands a good chance of passing. Mr. Potter and Mr. Hewitt show that business men can do better in a legislative capacity than the average lawyer, to whom our people persist in giving the preference over the members of any other profession. Mr. Potter is a very large real estate owner in New York, and it is useful to our citizens that men trained in the business world are willing to accept positions in the House of Representatives and thus give the country the benefit of their experience.

It is a fact which is not fully understood by the business public that there has been an enormous absorption of good railway bonds during the past three years. In looking about for investment the Mutual Life Insurance Company purchased certain railway bonds, and have been doing this for years. In taking an account of stock recently the company discovered that the bonds ferries or have their termini in an adjacent State, where they are | which had cost them $17,000,000 could now be marketed for $23,000,000. Here was a profit of over $6,000,000 in the investments of less than a few years. This, however, is but one instance out of many. Other institutions and tens of thousands of individuals have been quietly absorbing mortgage bonds, which are certain to appreciate in value as soon as their interest is assured beyond all peradventure.

The Lawyers Again.

This paper has been almost single-handed in protesting against the monopoly of political power possessed by the lawyers in the United States. We have said it was dangerous in any nation to give any one profession exclusive authority. The Albany Law Journal, in quoting our remarks, says that this is undoubtedly true, and that the legal profession must expect that the monopoly they now possess will some time or other be taken from them. And now comes our well-written contemporary, the Hour, which, after reviewing the shortcomings of our national Legislature, concludes as follows:

The great trouble with Congress-not only the present one, but nearly all its predecessors during the past half a century-has been, and is, that it contains too many lawyers. It is seldom that a great merchant, manu facturer or business man of any kind finds his way into that body. The result is we have a body of men legislating on questions about which they know next to nothing, and making confusion worse confounded. At least seventy-five per cent. of the men now holding seats in the Senate and House of Representatives are lawyers and professional politicians. So anomalous a condition of affairs exists in no other country with a representative parliamentary system. In Germany, in France and in England, the lawyers as legislators are in a minority. The great landed, manu-facturing, banking and other interests are all represented. With us the half-educated, ill-trained country lawyer from all the Squiduncks of the Republic pass upon the great questions of commerce and trade, and decide for communities like New York questions of the most momentous importance. Fifty per cent. of the lawyers should be banished from the halls of the national Legislature. Their presence there is an evil and a menace to the best interests of the country.

The Hour does not tell the whole story. The percentage of lawyers is far more than 75 per cent. of the national Legislature. Then all our possible presidents are lawyers, the cabinet ministers are lawyers, even the Secretary of War and of the Navy. Nearly every Governor of every State is a lawyer, while in every Legislature the lawyers are three or four to one against all the other professions combined. It is the lawyers who make, who expound and who execute all our laws. The Hour is also mistaken in speaking of the governing class as being half-educated. The trouble is that being the ruling profession and open to everyone, our lawyers are an exceptionally able body of men. It is the most tempting career for a bright young man to take up. Even in the railroad world the lawyers, if not the magnates themselves, are the advisers of those who control the railway system. The press ought to in a sense antagonize that profession, but more especially should it criticize decisions of courts, and protest against the grievous taxes laid upon property by this ruling caste, not only in the laws they pass, but also in their plunder of estates, in their promotion of litigation-delays of justice and heavy charges to litigants.

An editorial writer on the Tribune is very much distressed at the abundance of money. He thinks we have too much gold and silver as well as too many gold notes and silver certificates. Oddly enough he is desirous that there should be more bank notes, which have no intrinsic value whatever. The standard dollar, or the certificate representing it, is worth almost as much as gold, but the national bank bill has no value whatever in itself. But this odd reasoner calls the certificate representing silver actually in the hands of the Treasury inflation, while bank notes, which are not legal tender, which are redeemable in a reserve less than one-third of their face value, are represented as the ideal currency. As a matter of fact is there is less gold and silver in the United States than in France. In the latter country there is thirty-eight dollars per head, in the United States only sixteen dollars; of course this is exclusively of the precious metals, not counting Bank of France notes in the one case and greenbacks, national bank and gold notes and silver certificates in the other. In truth we have too little gold and silver, and it is a mistake to say we would be better off if twenty or thirty millions left our shores. No nation can have too much silver or gold, or paper convertible into those metals.

It has been proposed to make the Forty-second street reservoir a series of hanging gardens. The plan is to cover the surface of the water with a flooring, upon which will be placed gardens of roses and ornamental shrubs. Of course this would be undertaken by a private company, who would endeavor to make it a great summer resort. It might perhaps pay and would be an attraction to the city. When the new aqueduct is completed there will be a renewal of the agitation to remove the Forty-second street reservoir, which will not then be needed. In that case it would be well to consider the scheme to make it the site of a great technical and art school, constructed of iron and glass. New York needs such an institution, which could be made as beautiful as it would be useful. A vast building, dedicated to industry and art, a kind of glorified Cooper Union as it were, would be as useful as it would be novel. It might be called the Peter Cooper Memorial and its front adorned with the statue proposed to be erected to him. Peter Cooper is the man to honor, for he has done something for art, industry and the city in which he made his fortune, but there is no sense in perpetuating the name of Bryant, which in a few generations will be forgotten.

Concerning Men and Things.

Fanny Davenport did not treat Anna Dickinson right in the matter of the latter's play of the "American Girl." After the contract was signed, allowing certain royalties every time the play was enacted, Miss Davenport put the play in rehearsal, but refused Miss Dickinson the right to witness the preparation or suggest improvements in the action or business of her own piece. She was in fact excluded from the rehearsals. But changes were made which the author says injured the piece. All the "good lines" given to anybody except the heroine were stricken out. The play was not successful and probably would not have been had Miss Dickinson herself been permitted to supervise it, but the author can fairly claim every dollar of the royalties the contract gave her. Judge Barrett states that his play of "An American Wife" was altered to its injury by the Wallacks. He was told he must not interfere, and that piece was also a failure. In London and Paris it is the author who conducts the rehearsals and suggests the business or accepts such other business as is proposed by the manager and other persons interested. In this country our playwrights have not the authority they have abroad and their productions are therefore mangled to suit the whims of stars or managers.

It would look like impertinence for a corps of Parisian editors to come to New York and start a paper modelled on the French system and expect to compete with the American journals already established. But this is what has just been done in Paris. Mr. S. S. Chamberlain, son of the late Ivory Chamberlain (a brilliant leader writer on the World and Herald in his day), has started in Paris two papers on the American plan. French journals care nothing about news. A fire that would burn down a large section of Paris would be dismissed in a few lines. What the Parisian cares for is gossip, the brilliant article, the feuilleton and the personal attack; but the details of the world's news, such as given in our papers, is wholly absent from a Parisian journal. To satisfy the wants of the British and American colony Mr. Chamberlain published what he called the Morning News, modelled upon the best type of a New York journal. It was so successful that a French edition of the journal is now published daily entitled Le Matin. One hundred and fifty thousand copies were distributed throughout France the first day. It is said young Chamberlain is backed up by John Mackay, of Bonanza fame, and James Gordon Bennett may have a hand in the matter, as Chamberlain was once his private secretary, and in a certain sense the foreign manager of the Herald. * *

Speaking of John Mackay, there is some danger of his fortune not being so large five years hence as it is to-day. He was nothing originally but an Irish miner, whom wonderful accident has made immensely rich. He has not as yet shown any remarkable capacity outside mining operations. Since he has come East he has been the associate of Mr. George Roberts, and has been in many enterprises, such as Freeland, Hukill and the like, with that worthy gentleman, and he could not have profited by the connection. The Postal Telegraph Company is an organization with a great debt and a large amount of stock with very little wire or business. The cable scheme which Messrs. Mackay and Bennett have undertaken must necessarily be a heavy loss to the promoters, as it can have no connection with any telegraph system on this side which will give it business. It is a well-known fact that Mr. Bennett has made no success outside of his journal, nor Mr. Mackay outside the Comstock mines.

Ex-Governor John T. Hoffman turns up in an interview on responsible government anent the Albany legislation during the past week. What a pity this man was crucified by being identified with the Tweed ring. He made an admirable executive officer, and on every occasion showed that he had a clear head and strong common sense. There is no position he would not have adorned, from Mayor to President, but his prospects have been clouded forever because he was the ring's candidate for Mayor and then for Governor. Hoffman first won his spurs when, as Recorder, he tried and punished severely a number of the rioters who hounded the poor negroes to death in 1863. It was supposed it would imperil his popularity among the Irish, but it made him Mayor and helped him in the canvass for the Governorship; but politically he now is dead—dead—dead.

Is it not about time that the Stock Exchange put a stop to the brutal hazing and horse play which disfigures the sessions of that board? That college lads in their green and salad days should take to cane rushes and rough practical jokes may be expected, but the Exchange is a place where serious business is transacted, and its members are men, not boys. The governing committee should put a stop to these indecorous proceedings.

The Real Estate Exchange ought to engage Theodore Roosevelt to put through the laws they wish passed reforming our absurd system of conveyancing. He is no potterer, he believes in striking while the iron's hot. All that is asked of the Legislature this year is the appointment of a commission to investigate abuses which are notorious to every real estate dealer, owner and lawyer. It is too bad that the necessary reforms cannot be effected before the Real Estate Exchange opens for business mext November.

Home Decorative Notes.

-Individuality as well as originality should and does assert itself in the arrangement and decoration of our homes; in the matter of the furniture for instance, because our friend has it placed in rows along the wall, we should not be guided thereby, but so place and express ourselves that the whole interior of our apartments will be full of such interesting surprises as will awaken the ideas and put the imagination of our visitors into activity.

-Tiger lilies are very extensively used for decorative purposes, and when mingled with palms show to excellent advantage.

-The fancy in pottery is for classic designs in grey and brown shades, made in France, by Haviland, and for trays, small castors, beer mugs and tankards of the Doulton ware; Davis, Collamore & Co., of Broadway and Twenty-second street, are offering a number of choice designs.

-Lovely bureau covers are of linen crash, pongee or batiste, the latter is extremely delicate, the English violet is a very graceful design for embroidery thereon; the bureau cover should be powdered with small bunches of violets, a large bunch for the cushion and small sprays put on either toilette mat, filoselle is used, each of the articles should be neatly hemstitched on the four sides and furnished with soft lace; the cover for the bureau should be lined with very delicate lavender satin, and the oblong cushion made of the same material and color.

-A branch of the flowering locust is a very pleasing design for a chair back, it may be worked on dark grey or cream satin sheeting in slightly conventionalized coloring, the flowers of yellow silk, the leaves in greygreen and dull yellow-green, and the stems dark brown with a little black here and there in the thickest part.

-The Japanese decorated leather is very showy and finely adapted for screens, and covering the irregular shaped tables; many exquisite patterns have recently been received by G. Epple & Sons, of 916 Broadway, a very rich screen containing three panels was noticed, each panel was of cardinal plush with the magnolia design painted in oil colors, a space of about 12 inches intervened between the plush panel and frame, and was filled with strawberry pongee curtains suspended from a brass rod with rings; the whole design and style was extremely graceful and delicate.

-Many apartments are adorated with embroideries and hangings which rival in beauty and costliness those to be found in the Old World. McGibbon & Co., of No. 913 Broadway, display a large assortment of very elegant fabrics suitable for portieres, window hangings and wall panels; most exquisitely embroidered bed spreads and pillow covers, very beautiful and new designs in lunch and breakfast cloths with napkins to match in white or colors with the knotted fringe.

-Artificial roses arranged for lamp shades are very handsome, the bright carnation pink is also much used and with a very pleasing effect.

-Velours is the latest material used for embroidering cn plush, although for certain kinds of leaves and flowers the arrasene is preferable and more effective.

—The mahogany stained square Harborough chairs are made very attractive by the addition of loose cushions of royal blue plush and embroidered with the nasturtium design in heavy embroidery silks, fasten on the chair by means of blue and orange ribbons.

-A novelty in screens is seen in the introduction of matting. This material takes oil colors well and forms an excellent neutral background for floral designs or landscapes. The dark woods are the most effective for framing this material.

-An exquisitely delicate frame has a covering of light blue plush, while at the left corner is carelessly thrown a bit of canary-colored pongee, which is held in place by a bunch of the holly and bright red berries.

-Square tables are now used for dinner and breakfast rooms, the favorite wood for these is oak, the buffet is in English oak, with bevelled glass or brass decorations.

-"Change is characteristic of humanity," not long ago pale blue and pink were considered mortal enemies, now they are the best of friends; marcon and silver grey are upon most intimate terms; dead-leaf green and jonquil yellow are exquisite together, they have been old companions in the meadows for a long time; copper red and dull blue is the latest enthusiasm.

—In these days of artistic furnishing every article in the house should combine usefulness and beauty, the Japanese umbrella serves as quite an adornment, and lends special attraction to the table, it may be adjusted as a shade to the exquisite brass and silver standard lamps now so much in vogue, the effect of the light passing through the different colors of the paper is very soft and beautiful, these umbrellas spread open are effective for fire screens, punkas are also much used for screens and are placed in a frame constructed for that purpose, various articles in the way of Japanese decoration are continually being received by Vantine & Co., of 877 Broadway.

-A unique arrangement for holding salt is an imitation of a pump in silver, the pump forms the receptacle for the pepper, while a tiny gold-lined tub is placed under the spout of the pump for holding the salt.

-Women are not generally supposed to be very largely endowed with the inventive quality, yet many things of frequent use in a family were first imagined or procured by them. It first dawned upon the mind of some good old nurse that thistle seed would make a good down pillow for people in health as well as for those in sickness. Soft tissue paper, or newspaper, spread between the outer part of a quilt and its lining nearly doubles its warmth, while it does not add a perceptible particle to its weight; and, while on the subject of pillows, many may be glad to learn that one placed above and another below a vessel holding ice will keep it for a length of time unmelted.

City Reform at Albany.

"How do you account," said the writer to Mr. W. S. Andraws, "for the reform furore at Albany? Why is it that Mr. Roosevelt is so successful when all the politicians of all parties are against him ?"

Mr. Andrews is an ex-Assemblyman; he was the chief of Mr. Tilden's "literary bureau," and is well acquainted with the inside of affairs at the State capital.

"To begin with," said Mr. Andrews, "the Republicans have a good majority and every reason this presidential year of making a good record. Then they have the countenance of Governor Cleveland, who is heartily in favor of reform measures, as he was once himself a Mayor and knows the depravity of the average alderman. Then there is a power behind the throne in a person not known to the general public, but who is very influential. He is a State Treasury clerk, and his name is Apgar. This gentleman was formerly Tilden's representative. It was Apgar who chose Chapin for Speaker last year, and who was the means of nominating Cleveland. He is a poor man, but thoroughly honest, and he controls a sufficient number of Democratic votes to back up Roosevelt and insure the success of the measures presented by the latter. The Republican and Tammany machines in this city are practically one organization; they find themselves powerless in the present state of affairs. If all the Democrats were opposed to this reform legislation, they could buy up a sufficient number of Republicans to defeat Mr. Roosevelt's measures, but Mr. Apgar and Governor Cleveland have so much power among the Democrats that the Tammany and Republican machines are unable to form successful combinations. If you notice the votes you will see that the politicians proper are very willing to have the heads of the departments elected. This gives them a chance to make deals and trades. What they dread is the power being lodged in the Mayor to appoint the heads of departments. I. suppose, however," continued Mr. Andrews, "that many of the reform bills will be killed, not by voting them down, but by indirection-that is, by waiting to the end of the session and adjourning before final action."

Aliens and Real Property.

NEW YORK, March 8, 1884.

Editor RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you please inform me as to the law relating to the holding of property (that is, real estate) in the United States by an alien? And also whether it is a fact that the Queen of England owns real estate in New York, and oblige A SUBSCRIBER.

REMARKS.—Our correspondent's question is rather a broad one. An alien, resident or not, can take real estate by conveyance and hold it against every one but the State. A resident alien can take by will, but if a male of full age he cannot hold it against the State unless he make and file a declaration to become a citizen. An alien, resident or not, can convey the land so acquired by him to a citizen, who will thereby acquire a good title.

If a resident alien, or a naturalized, or a native born, citizen has purchased or hereafter shall purchase real estate in this State, and has died or hereafter shall die, leaving persons who, according to the statutes of this State, would answer the description of heirs of such deceased persons, or of devisees under his last will, and being of his blood, such persons so answering the description of heirs or of such devisees of such deceased person, whether citizens or aliens, can take and hold as heirs, or as devisees, the real estate owned by such deceased alien or citizen at the time of his death; but if such alien heir or devisee be a male of full age he cannot hold against the State unless he make and file said declaration.

Alien women are entitled to dower in lands of which their husbands were seized, if said husbands were citizens.

If a resident alien shall purchase real estate, and shall die after having devised or conveyed the same, the devisee or grantee, whether citizen or alien, can take and hold the title, provided, however, that if such devisee or grantee be an alien and of full age, he shall not hold the same against the State unless he make and file the said declaration of intention. Aliens who make and file a declaration of intention to become a citizen can sell or devise real estate (acquired by them by purchase or devisee) to any citizen or resident alien; but if the alien, grantee or devisee be a male of full age, he shall not hold it unless he make and file the said declaration.

An alien woman, resident of the State, can take and hold by devise under the will of her husband, or of any other person capable of devising; and can also take every beneficial interest or estate in her favor, or for her benefit, in any marriage settlement or in any will or devise made by her husband, or of any person capable of devising real estate, subject to the provisions of law relating to uses and trusts.

The last statute passed for the purpose of confirming titles of citizens obtained from or through aliens, is very comprehensive and differs from the prior acts passed for the same purpose in that it is prospective in its operations. It provides that the right, title or interest of any citizen to any lands now held or HEREAFTER ACQUIRED shall not be questioned or impeached by reason of alienage of any person or persons from or through whom the title may have been derived. (See laws 1877, Chap. III.)

The foregoing applies only to the State of New York; while the general principle would remain the same, the details vary in accordance with the statutes of each separate State. Besides this, special treaties with certain countries vary the time within which the alien heirs may make their claim, etc. LAW EDITOR.

Frames are now made to suit all varieties and styles of pictures for lovers and admirers of the noble horse. A frame has recently been introduced for the display of the favorite steed. It consists of a leather horse-collar and ornamented with silver trappings.

The Outlook for Cotton.

"I am somewhat of a bull on cotton," said Mr. R. P. Salter, of the firm "There is an important shortage in the of Lapham, Alexander & Co. Indian cotton crop, the Southern planters have marketed their crop for this year, and I do not think much remains upon the plantations. There is a goodly amount of cotton goods on the market, but not, I think, more than can be handled by the trade. Hence I look for firm prices and perhaps for an advance, a speculative advance, between now and the opening of the new crop year."

"But," asked the writer, "is not cotton pretty high just now?" "Yes," said Mr. Salter, "the market figure is a pretty good one. It might be dangerous to buy for an advance when the very people who hold the cotton, and who have the warehouses and the capital to carry it, may short the market to buy in still more."

'Does it not seem, Mr. Salter, as though speculation were dying out on all the exchanges ?"

"Yes," was the reply, "I think there are too man 7 exchanges. There is a place for the Stock Exchange. The people who own securities ought to have where to sell them. I think a Real Estate Exchange is a very much needed institution. But why Oil and Coffee Exchanges ? Indeed, I have some doubt if a Cotton Exchange is desirable. It has increased speculative dealings, to be sure, but it has not brought cotton to New York to be bought and sold. We handled 600,000 bales in this city one year and speculated to the extent of 36,000,000 bales, but a Real Estate Exchange ought to be second in importance only to the Stock Exchange. I am surprised, by the way, that the Metal Exchange has not been more successful. Its seats sell for only $200, and yet the one item of iron alone is of as great importance and magnitude in the country as cotton."

"Do you not think," Mr. Salter, "that the point made by THE RECORD AND GUIDE that the attempt to make gold the sole unit of value is depressing prices and injuring business all over the world ?"

Yes," replied Mr. Salter, "it certainly looks so. The 'shortening of the yard stick,' that is increasing the purchasing power of one metal at the expense of all other metals and products, is having an injurious effect on the trade of the world."

Electric Light Poles in the Streets.

Judge Ingraham, in the New York Superior Court, handed down on the 1st inst. a very important decision in the suit of Tuttle against The Brush Electric Light Company, which affects all city property owners and those along country highways too. The company put up poles in Twenty-fifth street, between Broadway and Sixth avenue, and Mr. Tuttle tried to get an injunction against placing them there. but the Court decided in favor of the company, upon the briefs of Mr. Wm. M. Evarts and Mr. Charles C. Beaman, Jr. The Judge's opinion contains the following points among others:

"Twenty-fifth street, between Broadway and Sixth avenue, in the city of New York, was opened in pursuance of the provisions of the act of 1813, and the land condemned by the city and paid for in pursuance of the proand the land condemned by the city and paid for in pursuance of the pro-visions of that act. "The fee of the land taken under the provisions of this act vests in the municipal corporation, the Mayor, &c., of New York, not absolutely but in trust for a public purpose, viz., that the lands may be appropriated and used forever as public streets. The municipal corporation, exercising with-in its sphere a portion of the sovereignty of the State, hold the property, not for its profit or emolument, but for the public to use as a street, and has neither the right nor the power to apply any such property to purposes inconsistent with street uses has neither the right nor the power to apply any such property to purposes inconsistent with street uses. "But the limitation of the ownership of the city in the streets applies only to acts which are not 'included within the objects of the grant'— viz., that the land may be appropriated and used forever as public streets —as said in The People vs. Kerr; or 'inconsistent with street uses,' as said in Mahady vs. Bushwick Railroad Co. The Court of Appeals in the last case says that the Story case left untouched the decision in The People vs. Kerr, that a horse railroad was a street use consistent with the rights of abutting owners.

of abutting owners. "Defendant is, therefore, entitled to judgment, if it appears that the acts of the defendants were authorized by the proper authorities, and that the use complained of is a street use within the objects of the grant to the ## Prominent Buildings Under Way.

First-class apartment houses are not by any means overdone. The investor who is wise enough to profit by the experience of previous edifices of this kind constructed can, if he is in command of money sufficient, build an apartment dwelling so complete and luxurious in all its appointments that it will bring him in a very large income. The duplex feature is one which must be always borne in mind an I then the decorative work must be such as to satisfy the most fastidious.

The apartment house on the northwest corner of Fifty-seventh street and Seventh avenue promises to be one of the most substantially built structures of the kind in the city. When completed it will be ten stories high, exclusive of basement and attic, and will contain forty suites of rooms, the duplex floors containing twelve rooms in each suite. The building is to be strictly fire-proof throughout, no wood being used excepting for doors and windows. It will have four Otis elevators; every floor will be trimmed in hardwood and the steam heating, electric appliances and plumbing will be of the most perfect character. The latter is to be done by day's work under the supervision of one of the ablest sanitary engineers in the country. The staircases will be of marble and iron. A novel feature will be a croquet ground for the use of the guests and their friends. This will be on the roof, and will be capable of being used all the year round no matter what kind of weather. In summer it will be shaded by drawn blinds or otherwise, and in the winter will be heated by steam. By this ingenious arrangement the guests will be able to play croquet during the severest weather in the winter and thus obtain that necessary exercise from which they may be debarred by the inclemency of the weather. Croquet on a green lawn in winter will be quite a new thing in modern life, and that, too, at so high an elevation. A private billiard room will also be provided for the use of the house, while in the basement there will be a florist, doctor and chemist, so that everything necessary to the comfort and health of such a large number of people who will reside in this large building will be provided for. It is claimed for this apartment house that it is designed with a view to the comfort and security of life rather than to ornamentation, and no one can pass it by without feeling that it is a very solid and substantiallybuilt structure. It will have a frontage of 150 feet on Fifty-seventh street and 100 feet on Seventh avenue. What the entire cost will be cannot be told until its completion, which is expected to take place in the fall. The architect of the building is James E. Ware, and the owner Thomas Osborne. It is reported that this apartment house will be placed in the market as soon as finished.

The Potter building is going forward rapidly, and will be one of the largest office buildings down-town. It will have a frontage of 96.10 feet on Park row, 144.8 on Beekman street, 90 feet on Nassau street and 103.8 along the party wall, adjoining the Times building. It will be eleven stories high, without the basement and cellar, the two latter of which will be fitted up for use as safe deposit vaults. The building material will be of brick, terra cotta and iron. The latter is being supplied by the New York City Iron Works and the terra cotta by the Boston Terra Cotta Company. The large iron piers on the first story, which are to be seen on passing the building, are 4.6x6.4 and 16.6 feet in height. The upper floors of the building-that is, from the fourth to the eleventh-will each contain twenty rooms of an average size of 16x20 feet, each room being capable of sub-division to suit the requirements of the future tenants. The main fronts of the building will be on Park row and Beekman street, though that on the latter will be the more imposing. There will be four elevators, and staircases nearly 13 feet wide throughout the building. The total cost of this immense structure has been estimated at about $700.000.

The collapse of the Standard mine is a real misfortune to the mining market. It has been a splendid property from the start and has been honestly managed. But, unlike a railroad or a farm, all mines must have an end. The Standard mine was the only one in the Bodie region which has paid continuous dividends. Those who first subscribed for it in New York at twenty dollars a share and retained it must have more than doubled their money in the dividends they received. The Standard has paid eighty-one dividends, ranging from twenty-five to seventy-five cents each, and has paid out altogether $4,475,000. The Bodie has paid twentytwo dividends, most of them of fifty cents each, and distributed $1,420,000. The worst feature about the Standard is that its stocks are held in smal lots here in the East by investors, many of whom are women. The Standard may again discover a vein of ore, but it has found nothing profitable so far below the five hundred foot level. It is noticeable that none of the paying veins in either the Bodie or Standard were profitable in the lower levels. The present strike in the former is above the 300 feet level. As the Standard is no longer using the Bulwer mill the stock of the latter company is selling at an absurdly high price.

The need for a more rapid and secure means of conveying real estate is felt in other cities besides New York. 'The Chicago Real Estate and Building Journal, under the heading of "A New Doomsday Book," says if the plans necessary for such a work could be made complete every owner would be obliged to produce and present his claims. Perfect lucidity would then reign in a subject which is now involved and uncertain. The benefit of simplicity and certainty in facilitating transfers cannot be exaggerated. By this plan the actual ownership and therefore the duties and responsibilities of all property would become divested of technicalities; and rights and incomes of owners would be protected. Directness and clearness in reference to the rapidly augmenting volume of our real estate interests would be worth all it would cost, and would pay for itself in a few years. Recent discussions lend additional weight to our proposal to fix the actual ownership of all Chicago realty by means of a standard authority exclusively controlled by the State. A definite starting point to which all titles can be readily traced, and that would render complicated abstracts unnecessary, is urgently required.

ALBANY, March 20.

The signing by the Governor of the bill which allows the Mayor of the city of New York to appoint heads of departments without submitting his selections to the approval of the Board of Aldermen, and the passage in both Houses of the bill providing for the election of a Comptroller next fall, to take office on the expiration of the term of Comptroller Grant in December next, marks the extent of the changes made during the past week in the workings of the city government hereafter. A bill for the election by the city at large of a President of the Board of Aldermen has passed the Senate and been ordered to a third reading in the Assembly. This is to prevent dead-locks and deals in the organization of that board, the official so elected to be a member of all boards of which the president of the board is now a member. With the passage of this bill all of the members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, which fixes the amount that each department can expend and decides upon the rate of tax levied each year in the city, will be elective officers, except the President of the Tax Department.

In spite of the fact that the Corporation Counsel has sent here a circular announcing that the Mayor's cabinet, or heads of departments, disapprove of the bill prepared by the commission to locate parks in the Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Wards; for the purchase of property for six parks north of the Harlem River, the bill has been favorably reported in both Houses, only one dissenting vote in either committee. It appears that the Mayor's cabinet did not object to the establishment of parks north of the Harlem River, but to the fact that the heads of departments did not have the selection of sites and the control of the purchase of the lands therefor. These heads of departments will perhaps now understand that they are not all held in the highest esteem in Albany, and that a more efficient discharge of their present duties will do them no harm in the estimation of the public and the Legislature.

The new mechanic's lien law, introduced by Mr. Earl, referred to in a former letter, applying to all cities of the State, when it was reached on its third and final reading in the Assembly on Monday night was sent to the Judiciary Committee for further examination and report upon the extent and character of the changes in the present law on that subject, and its effect upon the building interests.

The bill to establish a commission to report a plan and prepare a bill to facilitate the transfer and exchange of titles in real estate has been favorably reported by the Senate Committee on Judiciary.

An important measure has been introduced in the Senate by Senator Coggeshall, amending the revised statute, so as to make the legal rate of interest on all mortgages, loans and notes hereafter made and issued in this State five per cent. instead of six, as now provided by law. The bill proposes to make five per cent, the legal rate of interest in the State.

Assemblyman Van Cott has presented a dangerous bill in the Assembly, which provides that whenever a deficiency shall arise from a sale under foreclosure of a mortgage on realty, or the amount received for the mortgaged property at the sale shall not be sufficient to meet the face of the mortgage, amount of interest due and expenses, it shall not be law-ful for any mortgagee to enter up a personal judgment for the deficiency against any person whatever. The Assembly Judiciary Committee reported the bill favorably to-day.

The act providing for the repavement of Fifth avenue, by a commission, from Washington square to Fifty-ninth street, at a cost of $600,000, has been ordered to third reading in the Senate, but there is to be a contest on the bill when it comes up for final passage.

A portion of Fifth avenue has been macadamized north of Fifty-ninth street, but it does not appear to be satisfactory. Senator Robb has presented in the Senate, and a like bill has been introduced in the Assembly. providing for the removal of that pavement and laying granite blocks

In the Obstance and all by all has been introduced in the Assembly providing for the removal of that pavement and laying granite block between Siteit and Sterenty-second streets.
 The bill has been introduced in the Assembly providing for the removal of that pavement and laying granite block between Siteit and Sterenty-second streets.
 The bill provides on the Steret and Steret and the Steret and Ster to build an underground railroad from the City Hall to Fourteenth street.

Real Estate Department.

This has been a red letter week in the real estate market. The sales rooms have been crowded and better prices have been paid at auction for improved property than has been known since the speculative times from 1867 to 1872. Mr. Harnett's sale of the Leggett property on Tuesday brought together the largest assemblage that ever attended any one sale at the Exchange. The prices obtained surprised everybody, but then Mr. Harnett managed the business of the sale with unusual ability and enterprise, and it was widely and generously advertised. The prices compared with the rentals, as shown by the table we give elsewhere, are really surprising, for many of the houses are anything but first-class. Still it must be borne in mind that the leases are old ones soon to expire, and much larger rentals can doubtless be obtained under new leases. In addition the old leases provide that the tenants should pay for the repairs and taxes. This large sale shows that there is plenty of unemployed capital auxious to invest in real property. The experiences of investors in Wall street securities and in general business have been very unfortunate for the last two years, and it is now found that improved realty on New York island is not only a surer investment than the average run of stocks but also yields a larger return for the money invested. Still much of the success of this particular sale is due to the auctioneer, for on Wednesday a property which had not been advertised, the five-story brick store, No. 180 Front street, was knocked down for $36,750, when, according to a deed recorded last month, it sold in September last for $42,000 to Oscar E. Schmidt. However, taken as a whole, prices on 'Change were never better, the attendance larger or the bidding more spirited.

There are other properties soon to come into the market which will attract a great deal of attention. French's Hotel will be offered shortly and it ought to be eagerly bid for on account of its location. It is one of the best business sites in New York. The enormous masses of people that will cross the Brooklyn bridge in days to come will make that section of the city very desirable to first-class investors. Indeed the business of the bridge will at some time become so important as to require the entire front from Franfort street to William.

The following table contains a summary of the transactions at the Register's office for the week ending with the 20th instant, and affords a comparison with the transactions of the week ending March 22d a year ago. The aggregate amount expressed in the Conveyances, as has been the case for a number of weeks, is far in excess of that of last year, while the mortgage indebtedness again records a large decrease:

E. H. Ludlow & Co. will make one of the most important sales of the season on Thursday, April 3d. On that day they will offer for sale French's Hotel and other property of the estate of the late Col. Dick French. We have speken elsewhere of the value of the hotel property. It has a width of 113.10 on Chatham street and a depth on Frankfort street of 136.3. This property could be put to any number of uses, all of them lucrative. Why should not the Sun Printing Company buy this property and sell their present site, so that the Tribune building could be complete with another tall tower on the corn-r of Frankfort street. The property included in the estate is also valuable, and comprises the four five-story brick stores and dwellings on the southwest corner of Thirtieth street and Third avenue, and No. 156 East Thirtieth street, with brick building; also No. 915 Third avenue, on the northeast corner of Fifty-fifth street, 25x 110, with four-story and three-story brick dwellings.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. will on Tuesday sell at public auction the stone front dwelling, No. 467 West Fifty-seventh street, lot 20x100.5; the plot on the northwest corner of Madison and Pike street, 54x45.9, and nine valuable improved lots, three on the southeast corner of Eighty-fourth street and Tenth avenue, three on Eighty-third street, and three on Eightyfourth street.

On Wednesday Richard V. Harnett & Co. will offer No. 129 Broome street corner Pitt street, and No. 204 Broome street, each well built brick tenements, with stores on ground floors. Also Nos. 304, 306 and 308 East Forty-fourth street, three full size double brick tenements.

Richard V. Harnett & Co. will sell on Wednesday at peremptory sale a number of choice private dwellings in the city of Brooklyn, on State, Sackett, Navy, Dean, Decatur and Warren streets, and Carlton and Prospect avenues. Terms to purchasers are liberal.

John F. B. Smyth elsewhere aurounces sales at public anction of a number of valuable properties. On Tuesday next he will sell the premises No. 26 Laight street, extending through and including No. 5 Vestry street, and on the same day the three-story brick dwelling No. 121 East Eightyfifth street.

On Wednesday next Mr. Smyth will offer the following: No. 440 East One Hundred and Twenty-first street, a full-size three-story and basement dwelling, and a lot on the south side of One Hundred and Twenty-first street, 175 east of First avenue; also the business property No. 273 Water street, the fine three-story and basement private dwelling No. 17 East Twelfth street, and the premises No. 26 East Thirteenth street, with twostory brick store on front and brick stable on rear.

On Wednesday, March 26, James L. Wells will sell, in partition, eighteen desirable lots on Sixth Avenue Boulevard and West One Hundred and Fifteenth and One Hundred and Sixteenth streets; these lots are in the line of immediate improvement and should command good figures.

On Tuesday next, March 25, at No. 45 Broadway, Brooklyn, E. D., James C. Eadie will sell under order in partition, the following Greenpoint property. Nos. 61 to 75 Milton street, and Nos, 60 to 68 Greenpoint avenue, on which there is a brick factory, 99.11x40, fitted with boilers, engine, &c. On the plot are also several other well constructed tenements and buildings.

The elegant dwellings on the south side of Seventy-first street, near Ninth avenue, are well worth inspection by intending purchasers. They will compare favorably with many of the first-class houses on the east side, and can be obtained for about 30 per cent. less cost, owing to the ground having been bought at a low figure. The interiors of these houses are superbly finished in hardwood. The floors are inlaid, and there are bevelled mir rors, buffets in the dining rooms, elaborate grates and fixtures, and transoms in the cabinet work. A reporter o' THE RECORD AND GUIDE had an opportunity of inspecting the houses, including the plumbing work, which is of a first-class character. Hygienic vapor bath appliances are provided, and there are two bath rooms in each dwelling. One or two of the houses have a large and imposing entrance hall, with a grand staircase leading to the upper floors elaborately worked in oak, giving the appearance of a stately mansion. The buildings vary in size to suit all purchasers, and prices with full particulars can be obtained on application to the owner and builder, G. W. Hamilton, 408 West Seventy first street. The elevated road station is at Seventy-second street and Ninth avenue.

The well-known Empire building on the corner of Broadway and Rector street, being Nos. 69, 71 and 73 Broadway, has just been renovated at a cost of about $50,000. New floors have been laid and all the offices have been decorated and painted. There is but one vacancy in the building, which is a desirable large office on the ground floor, 42x105 feet, as will be seen from an advertisement on another page. The present annual renta of this building is said to be $110,000. It has a frontage of $2.6 feet on Broadway, 223 feet on Rector street and 52 feet on New Church street, and has an uninterrupted north light, making the offices especially desirable for artisans, architects, lawyers and others.

With money on call at  $1\frac{1}{5}$  to 2 per cent., sound real estate investments netting from 4 to 6 per cent. may well be considered good, not to speak of a prospective increase in value. But it appears that first-class property in the dry-goods district brings even higher figures. Daniel Birdsall & Co., of No. 319 Broadway, are offering real estate in that location which yields a net annual return of 10 per cent. Property of this kind is certain to be eagerly sought after by intending investors.

Bedford Park, inside the city limits and eighteen to thirty minutes distant from Forty-second street, by Harlem Railroad, has become a desirable residential locality owing to the improvements inaugurated by the Twenty-fourth Ward Real Estate Association. Within its present precincts have been erected a number of villas and cottages containing all improvements, which are offered at reasonable figures to these desiring handsome medium-sized dwellings in a locality convenient to the centres of business.

Mr. Leonard J. Carpenter advertises for lease the well-located plot, 75x82, with brick buildings, on the corner of Lafayette place and Great Jones street. The neighborhood is one that has for some years been increasing in value as a business location, and to those seeking a desirable leasehold site for business purposes we would suggest an investigation.

Investors and builders should not neglect to examine the advertisement of Mr. Cyrille Carreau in another column. He presents for their consideration the plot of sixteen full lots on One Hundred and One Hundred and First streets, just east of New avenue and west of Eighth avenue. The property is one particularly desirable to those seeking west side investments and is convenient to Central Park and elevated station.

A number of west side lots, all adjoining Central Park West, late Eighth avenue, are offered for sale, and present a good opportunity for investment, in view of their prospective increase in value. The lots are in the direct line of improvement; are to be had at cheap figures. Apply to V. K. Stevenson, Jr., S1 Cedar street. See advertisement.

Mr. Ferdinand Fish, of No. 149 Broadway, advertises for business property for improvement and alteration, and is prepared to purchase or lease at reasonable figures any good business site below Canal street, irrespective of its present condition.

The work will be commenced without delay.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—No very radical change has taken place on the market for Common Hards since our last. The extreme figures previously noted possibly require some little modification, but as they in most cases represented asking rates rather than an actual opertation of the modification, but as they in most cases of the state of a state of the state of the state store is shading them down. As now quoted the pausitions are placed at about $5.560600 per M for of 7.00 for Long Islands, $7.2507.50 and a possible $7.75 for, Haverstraws. No "Up Rivers" at hand to poperation that shipments may soon become possible $6.76 for, Haverstraws. Fronts remain quiet and more the store at legates, though interior bots would not so more and quite some the more remain the more met of all thes is some whether would more the more the more CEMENT.—Just at the moment the movement of all kinds is somewhat moderate, partly for want of stock, but the tone firmer. This is especially noticeable on foreign goods, the best grades of which are in limited supply and held higher owing to a scarcity of sail tonnage abroad and an advance in freight charges from 3s. 6d. to 8s, with only small amounts of stock afloat.

LATH.—A very unsettled tone is developed on such reports as can be obtained, and an unusually wide range of figures is mentioned, so great, indeed, as to prevent the fixing of any positive rate for the present. In point of fact the manner in which this market is reported commences to assume something the form of a farce, and we repudiate all responsibility for errors, apparent or real, owing to sheer inability to obtain definite information in explanation of the remarkable difference in prices mentioned. We can obtain any quantity of gratuitous advice as to the manner in which we should conduct our business, with original and unique suggestion upon the production of market reports, but in answer to a few simple queries intended to reconcile apparent discrepancies, receive only evasive and ambiguous answers. Under the circumstances, therefore, we accord all hands a hearing, an i merely record that sales have been reported to us at $2.35, $2.25, $2.20, $2.10, $2.00, $1.90 and $1.85 per M., with each figure claimed to be "about right" and the "other fellow" wrong. Conservative operators at the close thought that $2.00@3.20 per M. "might be" a fair figure, but would not commit themselves fully, and as we refuse to name a price at the moment, those interested can simply consult the above range and take their choice. There is the stereotyped report about small quantities on the way and the excellent prospects for demand, but appearances indicate that lath enough have been available of late and that no very eager attendance of buyers are awaiting additional offerings.

LIME.—There has been a fair demand and it exhaust, ed considerable stock, but hardly possessed sufficient volume and force to withstand the influence of the larger arrivals, and the market has weakened on both grades of Eastern. There is some irregulority in the development of the charge apparently, as reports do not closely agree, and we find on one hand that the market is "quoted" at $i.00 and $1.20 per bbl. respectively for common and finishing and on the other that "sales have been made" at 95 and $1.00 per bbl. respectively for the two grades as above.

GLASS.—The market in a general way continues quite irregular, and said to be more or less unsatisfactory to the selling interest. The outlet offered for stock, it is claimed, has proven much less than calculated upon, with no indication as yet of hurry on the part of buyers, but the accumulation in the meantime increasing and creating considerable trouble for those compelled to handle it. We do hear wibspers, however, in contradiction of the above, and even claiming that in reality the distribution of supplies for several weeks has been quite full and is likely to continue on most regular outlets, one or two houses reporting business quite as full as for several years. On prices the tone is steady for imported goods owing to reduced importation, but on domestic a little irregularity is shown. The workmen who went to be bitsburg in something of a hurry, as foreign employers had commenced to cut down wages and could not be conserver as the tone be started in Massilon, Ohio. Dispatches from Pittsburg contain the following: A committee of Western window glass manufacturers and workers have gone to the East to settle a trouble was thus set forth by a manufacturer to day: "The Eastern window glass manufacturers have been cutting prices lately and threatened to lower the market. LUMBER.—As it is usual at this time of year to find a comparatively quick demand for desirable cargoes offering afloat, and more or less anxiety to obtain contracts for special delivery during April and May, it is very natural that the absence of such features should create an unfavorable impression. #### Special Notices.

The Bedford Oolitic Limestone has been very largely used in different parts of the country for building purposes. This stone is of a true oolitic formation, and is a good light stone for architectural purposes. It is adapted for interior decorations, its surface being susceptible of a high and durable polish. It is close grained and easily carved, and has an ultimate strength of 10,000 pounds to the square inch. The owners of the quarries are Thomlinson & Reed, Avoca Quarries, near Bedford, Ind. Their sole agent up East is Mr. Frank Williamson, No. 614 Chestnu street, Philadelphia.

Attention is called to the card of John J. Bartlett, real estate and insurance agent, whose office is at Riverhead, N. Y. Residents in New York and elsewhere having property in this location would do well to communicate with Mr. Bartlett, who is a young and energetic worker. He is also a searcher and conveyancer and examines titles to land in Suffolk County at very moderate rates. He has references from O. B. Ackerly, late County Clerk of Suffolk, now of Yonkers, N. Y.; the Hon. E. A. Carpenter, Sag Harbor, L. I.; W. M. Smith and T. M. Griffing, attorneys, of Patchogue and Riverhead, L. I., respectively.

G. S. Harvey & Co., of Brooklyn, have secured the contract for the stained glass in Luke's Church, at Albany. It is to be a very handsome and costly piece of work. Each window will contain figures representing Biblical subjects, and they will all be memorial. The dedication will take place about June 1 next.

depressed state of feeling. Consumption is unquestionably slow, yard stocks are holding out beyond the ordinary average, and advices from primary sources are not calculated to raise apprehension of any important addition to cost, if any at all, yet the more recent changes assume a slightly favorable character so far as the movement is concerned. On both the Southern and Eastern product buyers have expressed a willingness to negotiate to a moderate extent when receivers have useful and attractive stock to offer, and a few special bills have also been put in for estimate, with indications of more to come in the latter line. It is true that the demand altogether looks very small compared with former seasons, but inasmuch as it is an increase over two or three weeks ago, and promises to hold and probably expand, it appears reasonable that it should be accepted as a basis for hopeful feeling. It fact, we can see no reason to expect other than a fair trade in standard grades of lumber as the season opens, but it is not likely that buyers will allow themselves to be hurried in their movements.

lumber as the season opens, butt is not inkely that buyers will allow themselves to be hurried in their movements. Eastern Spruce changes but little as to general features, though if anything the indications are of a more favorable character. Ordinary randoms and any of the rif-raff stuff manufacturers occasionally try to crowd upon this market are at quite as great a discount as ever, but when care has been taken to select a schedule adapted to the regular wants of local trade dealers in this city or Brooklyn can be found to give it attention, always providing that no attempt is made to add to the line of cost or to hurry sales. Receivers, however, cannot in every instance avoid the latter feature, owing to the necessity of securing a berth and unloading as quickly as possible, and this of course gives the buyer some advantage. Specials are coming to hand occasionally, and we also understand that manufacturers are getting some increase of business of the same kind along the Sound and at ports further east. Quotations may be placed at about $18@16 per M to cover the general run but some specials are said to have been placed recently at a higher figure. white Pine retains the attention of exporters to a fair extent and there is said to be quite an amount of stock now under negotiation on foreign account. Home trade, however, does not afford many satisfactory or encouraging features, and there is quite an inclination to speak of the market in an uncomplimentary manner. Indeed there seems to be a strong belief that cost must go down this season and all buyers who can do so stand off awaiting the event. Coarse grades are expected to suffer to the greatest extent. We quote $17.500/19.00 for West India shiping boards; $28@30 for South American do.; $140/16 for box boards, and $16.500/18.00 for extra do. Yellow Pine presents quite as many attractions for for bex boards, and $16.50%18.00 for extra do. Yellow Pine presents quite as many attractions for buyers as ever. Manufacturers are willing sellers and ready to compete closely upon al desirable calls made. Freight rates are low and tonnage capacity liberal enough to insure quite prompt delivery, but there is a failure to materially stimulate business and the small increase of demand is confined in the main to odd cargoes now and then taken where assortments require filling up or a special ordered against some positive want. Quotations under the circumstances remain somewhat nominal, but are certainly no higher. In the meantime there is a pretty good trade doing in free on board orders, and some of our local ooerators speak quite cheerfully of their success in that line. South America and the West Indies take a fair proportion of the goods sold, and there has been considerable done for shipment to the continent of Europe, but the trade with England is not spoken of with much enthusiasm. We quote as follows: Ran-doms, $18@21.50 per M; Specials, $21@22 do.; Green Flooring Boards, $22@22; Dry do., do., $23@24; Siding $22@234 do.; Cargoes f o. b at Atlantic ports, $14@14.50 for rough, and $19@22 for dressed. There is all of the latter the market requires. how: ever, but a considerable addition to the offering of fine to choice stock could be placed at full prices. Ash, cherry, oak and walnut of high grade are all wanted for home use. The latest advices from England report a large stock of Americau walnut and a slow scale for it. We quote at wholesale rates by car-load about as follows: Walnut, $65@110 per M; ash, $35@40 do.; oak, $30@55 do.; maple, $20@32.50 do.; whitewood, $27@35 do., do.; elm, $22@25; hickory, $46@52.60 do.

The following despatch came from Rochester under date of March 19, and we give it for what it is worth: A scheme of great importance to all lumber men throughout the State has come to light here this even-ing by which all lumber from western and southern Pennsylvania, which has hitherto reached the sea-board by way of Philadelphia, will hereafter be con-trolled by wealthy lumber capitalists in central and western New York and reach the seaboard by way of the Rochester & Pittsburg and Central & Hudson River railroads to New York city. Upon the invita-tion of the officers of the Rochester & Pittsburg road, a company of nearly 10 of the wealthiest lumber capitalists of Albany, Schenectady, Utica, Syracuse, Rochester and Tonawanda have made a trip over the Rochester & Pittsburg road during the past three days, and held conferences with all the heaviest mill-owners in southern and western Pennsylvania. The party returned this evening, and though all are very reticent on the subject, they admit that a combination has been formed by which all products of this, the greatest lumber district at present in the United states, will be controlled by the capitalists referred to, and will reach the seaboard by way of New York city instead of Philadelphia. date of March 19, and we give it for what it is worth:

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman and Manufacturer comes to us this week enlarged from the old folio form into a fine twenty-four page paper, overflowing with news upon lumber and lumber interests of the section it represents. The success of the paper during the past eight years is sufficient evidence of its worth, and in the new and more convenient dress we predict for it still more rapid progress. Courtesy and honesty in giving credit for "scissors" work is a marked feature of the publication, in decided contrast with some of its contemporaries. The market report of the Lumberman and Manufacturer to latest date is as follows:

LUMBERMAN'S GAZETTE, | BAY CITY, MICH. }

LUMEERMAN'S GAZETTE, { BAY CITY, MICH. } The market on the Saginaw River may yet be consid-ered quite sluggish, although sales occasionally leak out. The market really seems worse on the surface than it really is, owing to the retecence of manu-facturers, who are averse to "reporting their business" as they term it, and what sales are reported are warmed out of them by stratagem, in many cases, and then on the promise that their names shall not be divulged. On this account not half the sales which actually take place are reported. We have "caught on " to the following, however, since our last report: A manufacturer in this city sold last week 650,000 to Buffalo parties at $9, $18 and $38, but we are not at liberty to give names; $50,000 feet were sold at Sag-inaw on Wednesday last at $10, $20 and $40, and 500, 000 feet at $850, $17 and $37; also 200,000 feet at same place at $8.50, $17 and $36; also a sale was made last week of 300,000 feet at $28 straight; J. & G. Backus recently sold to Ed. Germain, at East Saginaw, 400,000 feet, to be transf-rred by rail; John J. Winsor, of East Saginaw, also report a sale of 2,000,000 feet to eastern parties. figures not give. . . . Toggers are withdrawing their forces from the woods, the late speli of soft weather being the incen-tive. It is pretty definitely settled that the erop of logs is large, and the mills will find no difficulty the coming sawing season in putting in full time. . . The Northwestern Lumberman as follows: .

CHICAGO

CHICAGO. The general spring demand, up to this date, has not put in an appearance. The cold and stormy weather over a great portion of the country immediately trib-utary to this market has rendered it impossible to use much lumber, and yard dealers in the country have deferred buying until more favorable conditions pre-vail. It is possible that within a few days succeeding this date a pronounced change for the better may come, as there are now evidences that the backbone of the winter is broken, and that the activities of the season will begin. The stock of really dry lumber is becoming low. Prices in such cases are reasonably firm and uniform. When prices are made to outside customers, consider.

able latitude is given. It is doubtful if the feeling as to prices on common stock is quite as firm as it was early in the winter. The talk that is freely to ine in-dulged in among manufacturers about the probability that dimension, especially, will rule lower than last year, weakens the views of yard holders. Yet dry lumber of all kinds, and the upper grades in any event, will likely hold on the event tenor of their way till the opening of navigation. On all the streams logging is progressing favorably. The thaw has struck several of the towns at the mouths of the rivers, but we have not learned that it has thawed in the woods enough to impair the roads On the centrary, in some districts where the snow was deep and mealy, there has been a temperature that has settled the snow and made hauling easier. Some contracts have been finished, and some men who could work longer, provided they wanted to, are straggling out of the woods, having had enough for one season. The indications are that driving will be begun under promising conditions. The past week on the hardwood market has been devoid of any striking features. Business has not been quite as brisk as during the latter part of Feb-ruary, but on the whole has been quite satisfactory to the dealers. Prices cannot be said to be appre-ciably higher, but there seems to have been custab-lished a better ratio between the buying and selling prices. There is a considerable divergence of views in regard to the stocks of dry lumder in the country. Some parties occasionally have a little difficulty in filling orders for good thick oak and ash. The popu-larity of red oak for finishing purposes is still on the increase. As butternut is attracting some notice, special inquiry has been made as to prices paid here for this wood. Some dealers have purchased firsts and seclarity of red oak for minsing purposes is sum on the increase. As butternut is attracting some notice, special inquiry has been made as to prices paid here for this wood. Some dealers have purchased firsts and sec-onds at prices below or quotations, but admit that they got them below value, and that $35 is about what they must pay. Common whitewood is the only grade in that wood that is being handled to any extent at present, but transactions are on a very small margin, and not very satisfactory to dealers. Stocks are not large, and it will be many weeks before they can be replen-ished.

ished. As we have noticed before, common and cull walnut has been meeting with a more vigorous requirement, which has settled values within more definite limits, and given a firmer tone to the market. Firsts and seconds in this wood, however, are still in limited de-mand, and former conditions prevail.

Stocks are not in all cases plentiful, but no dealer has experienced decided trouble in filling orders, and competition is strong enough to prevent an addition to values except now and then on small lots. Quotations are named at $2,60@2.65 per keg for 10d. to 60d., but buyers of a larger quantity would obtain lower figures.
