JANUARY 19, 1884.

W. H. Vanderbilt and Jay Gould both go out of their way to show the valuelessness of the West Shore road and yet wages are made that one or the other of them will control it before the year is much older. The West Shore would be handy as the New York ending of the Wabash and Missouri Pacific systems.

A high license law based upon the Scott law of Ohio would, if enacted, be a great relief to the taxpayers of New York. It is proposed to charge $500 for a license to sell liquor and $250 for the privilege of dispensing beer. If enforced such a law would bring between three and four million dollars annually into the city treasury, enough to cover the expense say of our entire police department. From a taxpayers point of view this would be a very desirable thing to do.

We don't want any legislative investigating committees to probe into the affairs of our city government; what we do need is such reforms in our city charter as will fix responsibility for waste and inefficiency. Our municipal machinery is all out of order, because we do not know whom to blame when things go wrong. In Great Britain Parliamentary investigating committees are of some value, as they are composed of experts or gentlemen of repute, not members of Parliament. But our legislative investigators are too often mere junketeers, if not blackmailers. The legislative committee which is to commence its sessions in this city to-day is fortunately composed of men of good character and fair abilities, but they can find out nothing that was not known before.

The Northern Pacific road was financiered and completed by two newspaper men—ex-reporters—Henry Villard and Horace White. The former commenced his career as a war correspondent, and the latter was originally a compositor. The West Shore road was constructed by ex-army officers. In neither of those roads was there a reputable financier or railroad man in a controlling position. The result was what might have been expected in both cases. Journalists are not usually good judges of how to spend money, and army officers, while they know what is good engineering work, are reckless in money matters. The Northern Pacific, according to Jay Gould, cost much more than it should have done, and is not very well built, while the West Shore was also too costly but is very well constructed. Real railroad men will some day get both of these properties and will make them profitable to their owners.

The question of housing the poor is becoming a burning one in England. The Tories, headed by Lord Salisbury, are agitating a scheme for using the national funds to provide decent quarters for the industrious poor. Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, the great Radical leader, proposes a still bolder remedy. He would have the government seize the property of owners of tenements which were unfit for human habitation. He would class landlords, who make money out of miserable and unwholesome tenements, with the criminal classes, who should be punished by being deprived of their property. Mr. Chamberlain claims that they ought to be proceeded against like the sellers of unwholesome food. Between the Tories and the Radicals something will doubtless be done to improve the habitations of the poorer classes of Great Britain.

Good. The Park Commissioners have decided to drain, cleanse and cement two of the lakes in the Central Park, the one near Fifty-ninth street and the other near the Conservatory, on Fifth avenue. This should have been done long since, though we doubt whether those two bodies of semi-stagnant water are really the cause of the malarial disorders which are said to prevail in the neighborhood. Whenever new streets and avenues have been opened up, or the soil disturbed by necessary improvements on this island, local sickness has often resulted. The paved and built-up portions of our city are as healthy as any in the country, except, of course, where houses have been built over dammed-up water courses. But any turning up of the earth is apt to be followed by sickness, which lasts until the improvements are completed. But there are many exceptions to this rule; the most notable being the region just north of the Central Park, where the soil is so gravelly that it will not retain moisture permanently. The malaria complained of in the neighborhood of the Central Park is in those localities where extensive improvements are under way. We are sure that in time no portion of the island will be freer from sickness than this beautiful and fashionable region. These particular lakes may be partially to blame for the malarial troubles complained of, and the Park Commissioners did well to order their improvements, if for no other reason than to reassure the neighboring property holders.

The Proposed Cable Roads.

A personal inspection of the cable system of Chicago and an investigation of the plans of the company which proposes to put a similar system in operation in New York, enables us to speak with some knowledge and authority upon the subject. On the whole, the impression made upon us is favorable. The growth of New York, as shown by the steady increase of business on the horse car and elevated roads, necessitates additional inter-mural facilities for The metropolis is behind many smaller cities in means travel. for getting from one point to another, especially between the east and the west sides. We ought to have the best passenger transportation system in the world, in view of the compactness of our population below the Central Park and the ease with which the public can be accommodated on either side of it. We could have had all necessary facilities had we the general local railway law which the constitution of the State calls for; but the local horse car monopolies have had power enough with the daily press of the city to coerce the two last Governors into vetoing the general railway laws passed by two successive Legislatures. In the meantime, the west side has suffered from lack of necessary horse car facilities, while certain zones of travel east and west are unavailable, because of there being no railway lines in operation. It is estimated that fully twenty tracks could be laid, running from river to river, which would be profitable to the companies operating them, and a great convenience to the public. Among the thoroughfares needing horse cars, according to experts, are Liberty street, Chambers, Canal, Thirty-fourth, Forty-second and One Hundred and Tenth streets. In addition to which the transverse roads through the Central Park would in time become profitable if operated under a general system, embracing connections with roads running north and south. But under our present laws, passed at the instance of the elevated roads and timid property holders, no horse or steam cars can cross Fifth avenue and Broadway below Fifty-ninth, nor can any track be laid upon the West Side Boulevard, and at the instance of Mr. Tilden in 1875 this prohibition was made to include the laying of any track across any streets through which an elevated road runs. These enactments should be altered this winter. if we are to have the needed accommodations not only east and west, but north and south, on the west side.

While we are providing for the future, some general system should be adopted, and the time has come when a programme can be sketched which will meet every needed requirement of travel on this island for the next fifty years. The following would perhaps embrace the general features:

1. The organization of a company under proper restrictions, with a sufficiently large capital to supply all the future wants of the city in the way of local transportation. The fares for travel north and south should not be over five cents at any time of the day; three cents should be sufficient on the transverse roads. But it should be possible for a passenger to purchase a ticket in any part of the city to any other part, and not pay more than one fare.

2. The elevated system should be adopted on the river fronts, on Lexington avenue, Tenth avenue or the Boulevard, and also, if possible, on some of the cross-town lines, where it would not interfere with the east side elevated or Metropolitan roads. Railroad men of high standing are authority for the statement that during the commission hours the full capacity of the east side elevated has now been reached, and, with the present facilities, any increase in travel will be dangerous. Hence the urgent need of an elevated road on Lexington avenue. It is clear, from the way the city is growing north and east, that a Lexington avenue, as well as the Second avenue road, will be needed to supplement the travel on the Third avenue.

8. The cable system could be made use of by all the elevated roads. Its adoption would add twenty per cent. to the value of all property on their lines. Travel by cable would be comparatively noiseless, it would decrease the wear and tear of the iron tracks, and would save citizens from the annoyances of noise, steam, cinders and oil droppings. Then, in future elevated roads, lighter and far more ornamental structures could be erected. They could be made a positive adornment to a street instead of an injury to property.

4. All our surface cars should in time be forced to use the cable. There would be little gained in the way of speed, for the experience of Chicago shows that there is danger to life where a surface cable car is driven too rapidly. But in Chicago, as in San Francisco, the cable system is replacing horse power. It is cleaner, pleasanter riding, and far more economical than the latter. At first, in Chicago, there were a number of accidents, due to the noiselessness, and unacquaintance of foot passengers with this mode of street propulsion. But the recent statistics on the subject prove that there are fewer accidents now with the cable than when horses were employed. It is the same capitalists in Chicago who own both horse car and cable lines, and they will gradually substitute the latter for the former. We should also profit, in another way, by the experience of San Francisco and Chicago, and make the opening under the surface through which the cable runs large enough to accommodate telegraph, telephone and electric wires, and thus solve another very important city problem.

The Rapid Transit Commission now in session will doubtless take all these matters into consideration. The cable system is incomparably superior for city passenger travel to either the steam engine on the track of the elevated road or the horse on the surface road. An important matter to be borne in mind is whether the city treasury or our citizens should benefit most by the privileges given to some company, which will operate all the cable lines on this island. If they give us cheap fares, say five cents from north to south and three cents from east to west, they might argue that they should not be taxed heavily in addition. But, however this may be settled, there is no doubt but that we shall have the cables here before many years are over. But they had better be introduced under some general system, which will satisfy all the future requirements of our citizens in the way of local travel.

Comparative Valuation of New York Realty.

Certain of the daily papers talk about the enormous increase in valuations of New York city real estate during the past year. As a matter of fact, the increased valuation aggregates about the cost of the new buildings. It is stated to be $41,094,759 more in 1883 than in 1882. The comparative table, which we give at the close of this article, shows the undoubted prosperity of New York for several years past. The increase in estimated value is of course greatest in the lower wards, on the upper end of the island and in the annexed district. In the First Ward the increase is nearly $2,000,000 in one year; in the Fifth Ward it is over $1,000,000. The increase of over $1,000,000 in the Ninth Ward is somewhat of a surprise, but the increase of nearly $12,000,000 in the Twelfth Ward, of $9,500,000 in the Nineteenth Ward and of nearly $6,000 .-000 in the Twenty second Ward, was what might have been expected from the activity in building in those sections of the city. It will be noticed that the increase in the Twenty-fourth Ward 1s very small. The same is true of the Tenth, Thirteenth and Seventeenth wards, that is, the eastern portions of the city, the home of our poorer tenement population.

It is very easy to predict that 1854 will not show so large an increase in valuation as has 1883. There are costly edifices under way which will be completed this year and will figure in the next tax levy for large amounts. A few structures like the Navarro properties alone will add millions to our taxable property. But this year there is no reason to expect any increase of values in the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Tenth, Eleventh, Thirteenth, Fourteenth, or Seventeenth wards. There may be a slight increase in the First, Sixteenth, Eighteenth, Twentieth and Twenty first and probably a relatively large increase in the Twelth, Nineteenth and Twenty-second wards. Should the Legislature adopt the recommendations of the commissioners, and set apart certain sections of the annexed district for extensive public parks, we would naturally expect a large increase in the value of property beyond the Harlem. If the valuation increases $25,000,000 this year over last it would be as much as the most sanguine would expect. The following figures speak for themselves.

* Decrease.

M. Henri Cernuschi, the well-known French bi-metallist, says in a letter to Judge Wm. D. Kelly that "silver is as fit to be coined January 19, 1884 into money as gold, and certainly exists in greater volume than gold. If mankind had to choose a single metal as money, the preference should be given to silver, because of the superior volume of that metal, which would be sufficient for all nations, while gold is an insufficient mass or volume." This is very true. The Chinese, it is said, thousands of years ago, discussed and tested all the various currency theories, including every phase of fiat money, and they finally settled upon silver because of its greater mass and steadiness of production. But public opinion in this country tends to the use of both metals at some acknowledged interchangeable ratio. We shall in time have full commercial relations with Asia, Mexico, Central and South America-all of which use silver exclusively. Our trade relations with Europe are already intimate, and gold is just now the recognized unit of value on the other side of the Atlantic. Hence our bi-metallism. As for paper, the very best currency is that which represents a gold or silver dollar actually in the treasury; in other words, the gold note and the silver certificate are the most certain and safest form of paper money issued in any part of the globe. This is a far-reaching question, but the way in which it is treated by the New York papers is exceedingly discredtable to their conductors. The Times and Herald speak of silver, which is the retail money of all mankind, as if its producers were criminals and the coinage of the white metal a folly. The ignorance displayed on this question by those two journals is simply phenomenal.

Our Prophetic Department.

INVESTOR—Well, Sir Oracle, we have had a blue week both in the stock and grain market. You were quite right about the latter in your recent conversations, but were you not a little out in saying last week that good securities were a purchase at present prices?

SIR ORACLE—I have nothing to take back. I distinctly said, while prices might be lower this season, that good dividend paying securities were a purchase for investment, and I say so still. The absurdly high price of Governments, as compared with other securities, tells the story. The use of money is worth more than three per cent. when stocks and bonds can be purchased which are reasonably and permanently sure to yield six, seven, eight and even nine per cent. Now I insist that there are such securities in the market—plenty of them. Gold dollars won't keep selling for ninety cents always, and some day Wall street will wake up to the situation and the leading capitalists on all the bourses of the world will be as eager to buy as they are now to sell. The "street" to-day is discounting all manner of bad news. It will get on the long side when least expected.

INVESTOR—But is there any new factor visible in the industrial world which is likely to turn the tide and advance stock values? The banks are still contracting their issues; business continues depressed; the multifarious enterprises started when the boom was under way are all clamoring for more money. The whole world is trying to accommodate itself to the gold unit of value, when, as the Bankers' Magazine points out, the silver added to the gold is insufficient to meet the enormous domands of modern commerce. From what point of the financial heavens, then, do you look for the appearance of any light to dispel the gloom?

SIR O .- The approach of a new era of prosperity will first show itself in Wall street. It was there the boom started in 1879, it was there the collapse began in 1881, and there the liquidation has continued for over two years. The first signs of returning vigor will be in the better demand for sound securities. This may not come right away. I look for lower figures this spring. We may have a semipanic; indeed, the past history of speculation shows that all bear as well as bull campaigns end with a brief season when there is a furious flurry in prices. But facts are stubborn things, and I insist that securities which bring in from six to nine per cent. are ridiculously cheap when selling below par, while Governments bring in only three per cent., and real estate mortgages not more than five. The person who has money to invest and who can do so without going into debt, can now go to Wall street and buy with his eyes shut. The time will surely come when this will be understood, and then look out for a turn in the tide upward.

INVESTOR—But are there not more securities in the market than money to purchase them? Has there not been an over-production of bonds and stocks and more houses built than are actually needed; in other words, must we not pay for our improvements as a nation before we can expect them to appreciate?

SIR O.—Yes, that is about the English of it. We have been over-enterprising, have incurred too many obligations, and in the effort to pay for them are sacrificing good properties. Hence the depreciation of securities, which tendency, I think, will make itself felt in time in real estate. But our people are so sangume and enterprising, our latent resources are so great, that I look for a rapid recovery when it takes place. But the heavy profits to be made on investments at present figures cannot but tell for the bulls in the long run.

INVESTOR-Do you look to Congress for any remedial legislation ?

January 19, 1884

SIR O.—Something will be done, but not much. An endeavor will be made to stimulate ship building and increase our merchant marine, but tariff legislation will, I fear, be a disappointment. The Democrats will not dare to commit themselves to any vital measure of tariff reform. If they did and could carry out such a reduction in the tariff duties as would stimulate foreign trade, it would not prove effective before the close of next year. A large crop of grain and cotton next summer and a good foreign demand might help to turn the tide and give us better times. But I see nothing to do us any good this spring beyond the unquestioned cheapness of good securities on the stock list.

Construction Companies and Architects.

General Edward F. Winslow, in explaining the bankruptcy of the North River Construction Company to a Herald reporter, admitted that the road cost more than was expected, and that this was a "mistake made by architects every day." Investors in new build ings, especially apartment houses, are aware of the truth of this remark. The architects, from a natural desire to secure contracts, very often largely underestimate the cost of the proposed structure. This is not always done designedly. The capitalist is sometimes whimsical and insists upon alterations in the plans, which make the charges heavier. Then a laborers' strike at a critical period of the work, an advance in lumber, iron work or other material, have all to be taken into account. Some of the apartment house projectors have suffered severely from these causes of uncertainty. This is true, we believe, of the building on the corner of Twentyeighth street and Fifth avenue, of that on the corner of Thirtieth street and Madison avenue, as well as all the Navarro buildings. In the case of the latter the difference between the estimates and the actual cost is reported to be surprisingly large. In all the cooperative schemes, the final footings of the bills are said to be largely in excess of the original estimate. But then the erection of apartment houses is a new business, and it was generally new people, both investors and architects, who have constructed them. The historic estates of New York, such as the Astor, Lenox, Goelet, Rhinelander and others have not constructed any of these palatial structures. Mr. Navarro made his money in the elevated roads and the stock market, and he will doubtless profit by his experience if he should ever construct another apartment house. Under the circumstances, that mistakes should have been made was quite natural. But railway construction is a very old business. If the officers of the West Shore and North River Construction Company undertook to construct a first class road through an old-settled country, and should have underestimated the cost, it showed either lack of intelligence or honesty. The engineering problems were easily solved, because competent railroad men in the United States have had the experience which the construction of a hundred thousand miles of road through all kinds of country have given them. There might be some uncertainty as to the cost of right of way, but prudent managers would have allowed themselves a wide margin to meet all possible expenses from this cause. Mr. Henry Villard might explain his failure by the uncertainties of constructing a road through a comparative wilderness, but every mile of ground between Weehawken and Buffalo has been gone over hundreds of thousands of times, and if the engineers made deceptive estimates they were incompetent, and if the promoters of the road failed to supply sufficient funds in advance they were either fools or deliberately dishonest. From all accounts the West Shore road has been built without regard to cost. The contractors have made the money and the unfortunate investors have lost theirs. It is a pity some legal machinery is not in existence which, in justice to the officers of the road, would show that they were not interested directly or indirectly in the extravagant outlays.

The Proposed Building Law.

The Joint Committee on the above law met at the Ashland House on Thursday evening last to consider the printed proof of the law as finally amended. The gentlemen present were Inspector of Buildings W. P. Esterbrook, Charles Buek, W. M. St. John, C. O'Reilly, W. J. Fryer, Jr., C. W. Luyster, Wm. A. Burtis, S. Crowell, N. Poulson, N. Le Brun E. L. Dobbs and J. B. Radley. Mr. R. M. Upjohn occupied the chair. A long and animated discussion took place on the various provisions of the proposed law, in which Mr. Esterbrook freely participated. The bill as printed was finally adopted unanimously, subject to a final correction in the phraseology. It will be presented at Albany next week, with the signatures of the committee appended. The New York Board of Fire Underwriters will also be represented, in addition to the committees previously reported, the members being Messrs. St. John, Burtis and Crowell. The new bill is admitted to be a great improvement on the present law. It will define clearly the position of the Building Department powers, and harmonizes, as far as possible, the various interests connected with building. The amended measure is styled the "Proposed Building Law for the City of New York to amend the consolidated act of 1882."

Who were the engineers and contractors who built the Harlem bridge at Third avenue ? The Park Commissioners say it is the worst bridge ever infleted upon a city.

Home Decorative Notes.

-In walking through the embroidery department of the Pedestal Fund Art Exhibition we had no reason to despond, for looking at the exquisite textiles of American manufacture, such as cloths of gold, lustrous velvets and brocades, soft-lined woolen fabrics and the silken figured goods that lined the walls with beauty, the thought occurred to us that at no distant day, if we so desired, we should cease to be dependent upon the looms and needles of the Orient or of Europe for the embellishment and decoration of our homes.

-The square wicker chairs stained in mahogany, silver bronze and gold effects, with loose cushions of terra cotta, cardinal, royal blue or the shaded plushes are extremely elegant.

-Dainty little salts of gold are in the shape of oyster, clam and scallop shells, with silver lining, the tiny spoons are of gold and spade shaped.

-The effect produced by relief embroidery is indeed superb, and almost equals that of the natural model, the method of working is quite simple, the petals are modelled in the desired tints of plush on a thin foundation, this is then applied to the desired material and fastened down by stitches taken lightly on the underside, the pansy and geranium are the favorite flowers for this peculiar style of embroidery. Some beautiful specimens of the above work was noticed at Bently Bros., of 1152 Broadway.

-Barrel-shaped cheese cups of Dresden and the delicately transparent Belleek ware, with an accompanying silver spoon, are much in favor for holding Neufchatel cheese.

-The demand for lamps is constantly increasing, the styles and designs most exquisite and varied; rare specimens of Crown Derby, so famous for its beautiful bright blue, scarlet and gold decorations, are seen in all their r gal splendor.

-Exquisitely beautiful after-dinner coffee spoons have hammered bowls and copper decoration on the slender handles, at the top are tinted branches and coffee berries of copper.

-Most exquisite articles de luxe are constantly arriving from Austria, France and Switzerland, costly and perfumed satchets of velvet, satin and alligator skin for gloves, handkerchiefs, laces, etc., library cigar and tobacco sets of brass and ivory and copper in curious shapes, and a very attractive line of hammered and oxidized silver goods is exhibited by Baker, Pratt & Co., of No. 19 Bond street.

-The Roman aprons made of linen woven in colors are both artistic and dressy, very lovely also are the round or square shaped silk aprons of delicate blue, pink, etc., with edges and pockets trimmed with Oriental lace.

-A very odd and highly novel picture frame is of oak and decorated with all the necessary equestrian paraphernalia.

-Something which will add joy and pleasure to the long winter evenings and amuse and gladden the hearts of the little ones, is the Polyopticon, it is a wonderful little instrument, as it will throw upon the screen any kind of picture and reproduces the colors perfectly, it is in every way superior to the magic lantern. All styles and sizes of these instruments were noticed at No. 6 East Fourteenth street.

-Dainty Pompadour slippers with high French heels are carved from Swiss wood, for catch-alls.

-Shoe horns of ivory, stained in shades of wood colors, are etched in designs of fishermen and mermaids, and are decorated with ribbons for suspension.

-The rattan furniture gains daily many admirers, the silver bronze, gilded and stained wood eff cts, decorated with ribbons, harmonizing or contrasting in color, are very attractive; the music racks, work baskets, oddly shaped tables and bookshelves, are numerous in style and finish; the exquisite baby carriages in shapes of canoes and slippers, and lined with blue and lavender satin, are particularly beautiful. A very choice and varied assortment of this style of furniture is offered by F. W. Richardson & Co., of No. 28 West Fourteenth street.

-The birch bark forms a pretty medium for pen and ink drawing, cut in the shape of a maple leaf, with root of sappling attached, it is quite unique for dinner cards or menus.

-Knitting has within the past few years received a wonderful impetus, beautiful examples of knitting were recently shown by Marie Henderson, of 872 Broadway, every possible style of work in silk or worsted was there. Miss Henderson now offers a superior quality of knitting silks in every color.

-Natural flowers may be preserved by taking them when fresh cut and dipping them in paraffine melted enough to maintain its fluidity; move the flowers about very carefully in the liquid so as to remove all air bubbles, withdraw quickly and hold a moment to dry.

-The crocus pots are beginning to show color; the tender purple points are struggling and pushing their way through the hedge-hogs and beehives. A fine variety of these languid little flowers are offered by Walter Reid, of Broadway and Thirty-third street; during the present week a very rare and choice selection of orchids was exhibited by this firm.

-Luxurious sofa cushions are stuffed with down and covered with plush ornamented with applique designs, relief embroidery or sprays of flowers worked in chenille or arrasene.

-In fine upholstery, carpets, draperies and rugs, the acme of magnificence seems to have been reached; the carpets are simply beds of flowers, soft creamy grounds with roses, wood violets and soft green foliage, dark blue and red grounds with quaint designs of flowers in pale blues and rich browns, with patches of ferns; there are rugs in every variety and style of elegance, the domestic rugs are rapidly gaining in favor; a very attractive rug, and specially adapted for dining-rooms or bed-rooms, is wrought in the Kensington style; a variety of these goods was recently shown by J. & J. Dobson, of 40 West Fourteenth street,

Something About the Real Estate Exchange.

The recent call for 40 per cent. of the subscription to the Real Estate Exchange and Auction Room (Limited) has naturally attracted attention to the affairs of that institution. In order to give our readers some authentic information, a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE called upon and had the following conversation with one of the directors:

REPORTER-I come on behalf of THE RECORD AND GUIDE to get the latest and most authentic news about the exact status of the new Real Estate Exchange. Is there anything to communicate that would interest the public ?

DIRECTOR-I am willing to tell you all I know but I wish it distinctly understood that I am not authorized to speak for the Board or its officers. I have my own ideas as to what the Exchange should be, but I do not know that they are shared by my associate directors. At their last meeting the purchase of the houses on the northwest corner of Liberty street and Liberty place was confirmed. The total cost of these buildings to the Exchange is $421,500. As the capital stock of the Exchange is $500,000 this will leave only $78,500. Should printing, lawyers' fees and running expenses for the first year be say between $8,000 and $9,000, there will be $70,000 left. The structure adjoining the "Marquand Building" is not fit for occupancy and will have to be reconstructed. The new edifice should be fireproof, and should correspond in appearance to the Marquand Building. This and the construction of an auction room would use up all the funds of the Exchange, and probably leave it in debt, if its constitution permitted, which it does not. There is some talk of not paying off a mortgage of $180,000 which is now a lien upon the Marquand Building. This would give the Exchange plenty of money for its new building and auction room, and leave a respectable fund in its treasury. But as yet this has not been fully decided, and may not be for some little time.

R.—Will the purchase of the Marquand and adjoining building be a paying investment?

D.—In the judgment of one of the most far-seeing brokers on the board, the rental can be increased so that it will amount to at least $35,000 per annum, which will pay, as you can easily see, a very good dividend upon the purchase. Then there will be other sources of revenue; the auctioneers will pay for their stands. I understand that for three years past the gross income from the auctioneers in the Trinity Building has been $11,000 per annum. It is reasonable to suppose that this business will be quite as remunerative to the new Real Estate Exchange as it has been in private hands at 111 Broadway. There ought to be a large increase of business in the auction room.

R.—But will the new Real Estate Exchange secure all the business now transacted at Trinity Building?

D.—It is understood that the owners of the lease of the latter building are willing to sell, but some of our directors do not see that they have anything really to offer. The business will inevitably come to the larger, richer and more influential establishment, but it may take some time.

R.-You spoke of other sources of revenue.

D.—Yes; when organized the Exchange will furnish information about city property, assessments, taxes, liens and the like, for which they will charge fees; but this source of revenue may not be available for a year and may not amount to much for several years. Then we ought to realize something from the permission we propose to give outside brokers to become yearly members at a charge of sixty dollars per annum. They ill have all the privileges of the Exchange, except the right, of course, ill have all the privileges of the Exchange, except the right, of course, to vote for directors; nor can they expect to have any interest in the dividends, if any, that may be declared. If even moderately successful before ten years are over there will be a thousand annual members, which would give an income of $60,000, in addition to the rentals, auction fees and other sources of revenue. I look upon the seats in the Exchange as being intrinsically valuable. The brokers who compose the directory are among the most experienced in New York. Their business has been to manage, nurse and increase the incomes of estates, and you may be sure they will attend to their own business quite as wisely and faithfully as they do that of their private clients.

R.-I see that there is very little if any premium upon the subscriptions to the Exchange. If it is such a good real estate investment why do not the shares command a higher premium ?

D .- Among the five hundred shareholders hastily got together there will naturally beforty or fifty impecunious speculators, who may not be able to meet their engagements. From the composition of the membership we think there are fully three hundred members whom no ordinary pecuniary temptation would tempt to part with their shares. There are probably forty or fifty who would be forced to sell as soon as the additional calls were made, and some subscriptions may perhaps be sacrificed, but those who hold on will find that they have a good paying investment. Unlike other Exchanges there is little probability of annual dues being exacted. We may not declare a dividend the first or second year, but the price of the seats will inevitably advance as soon as it is fully understood that all the capital in the Exchange is being put to a productive use. The directors cannot go in debt or mortgage the property of the Exchange without the consent of a majority of the subscribers, which it would be very difficult to get. I do not believe they will ever be applied to; at least, not while the present long-headed and cautious brokers have control of the institution.

R.—But what do you expect the Exchange will finally effect ? Will it meddle with public affairs or aim at any alteration in our laws ?

D.—Here again I want to warn you that what I will say on that point is my own individual opinion. I do not speak for the Board or its officers. The Exchange will never be able to fulfill the objects its projectors had in view, unless it can succeed in so altering the laws affecting real estate as to make conveyances of property as easy, sure and inexpensive as transfers of bonds and stocks. The expense, uncertainty and waste of time which is now involved in the purchase and sale of real estate must be done eway with. Our friends, the lawyers, must make up their minds that the real estate brokers and property holders will do all they can to cut down their extravagant charges against real estate. To do this the Exchange will be forced to become in a sense a political body. It will not become partisan, but will use both parties to accomplish its ends. Naturally it will have something to say in all measures affecting local government, so as to lighten taxation. It will be profoundly interested in building laws and sanitary enactments.

R.-What machinery would you suggest for carrying out these higher aims of the Exchange !

D .- We are about organizing a General Committee on Legislation. Among the list of our members are some of the wealthiest and most influential citizens of New York. Our purpose is to get those gentlemen to work, if they will, so as to bring their influence to bear not only at Albany but at the City Hall. So far organizations of real estate owners have not amounted to much, the politicians have got the best of them. But the real estate brokers represent a business interest, which is naturally seeking its own advantage, and they will keep at work at this problem of land transfer reform, as it is a matter which affects their pockets. My own plan would be to have the General Committee of the Real Estate Exchange the nucleus around which all the best classes of our citizens should rally. I would have them open negotiations with the Chamber of Commerce, the Stock, Produce, Cotton and Metal Exchanges, so as to get their co-operation if possible. Then why should not the great clubs of New York be utilized for purposes of civic and legislative reform? Why should not the Union League Club, which has done good work in the past, and the Manhattan Club, which has an influential membership, help in promoting such measures as will give New York responsible and economical government? There is the University Club, with over a thousand members-all educated gentlemen, for no one can belong to it unless he is, at least, a bachelor of arts. Surely, there should be some public spirit in a club made up of college graduates. The Union and St. Nicholas Clubs ought to help in redeeming this city from misrule. The great London clubs have all a public function. They repre-sent the various phases of political opinion in Great Britain. The social features are in the great clubs of London subordinated to the higher politics of the Empire, and so it should be here.

R.-Yes, and there are a number of reform organizations which have been trying to do some good in their own way.

D.—I am afraid some of these do not amount to much. They are often composed of knots of uneasy people who adopt some high-sounding title and then write documents to get their names in the papers. The one difficulty I see in our way is the crowd of noisy and uneasy cranks who infest organizations of this kind in order to achieve personal distinction or add to their notoriety. If there was some way of keeping our deliberations secret, of not permitting any name to go before the public in connection with our movement, it would save us from these notoriety hunters and make our work far more effective. My idea of a model municipal reform association is that of the Philadelphia Committee of One Hundred, which has done so much to save our sister city from rascals in office.

R .- Will not the establishment of the Exchange lead to speculation ?

D.-Possibly. If our land laws are simplified and transfers of property are easy, there will be a great increase in the number of transactions to the advantage of brokers, and, if you please-speculators. This will, however, greatly advantage real estate owners, for if sales are readily made property will advance in value. Real Estate is now unavailable for a call loan at a bank. To secure a mortgage involves a tedious waste of time and much trouble and expense. If titles could be readily ascertained and guaranteed, real estate would at once have a standing in a bank and could be used as a collateral for a short time loan. This would be a wonderful accommodation to business men in times of monetary distress. In many of the recent fail-ures in the clothing trade, the bankrupts were found to be possessed of large parcels of real estate, but they were unavailable. Were it possible before the close of this coming spring season for all the real estate of the country to be made available as an asset for a call loan, there would be a revival of business that would be magical. It would be simply an enormous addition to the floating wealth of the country. What was latent would become active. This might lead to what you would call speculation, but in no sense would the increase of business be illegitimate. It would help every real interest in the country. Should the reforms we have in mind be brought about, a real estate auction room would be as thronged as is the Stock Exchange. Our auctioneers and brokers would not only sell houses and lots, but would buy and sell guaranteed mortgages. Then why should not contracts be bought and sold at auction. Suppose any large owner of real estate should give a sixty days' contract upon a house or a block of land, it might be auctioned off at the Exchange and perhaps change hands twenty times before the contract expired. Then, I believe that corporate wealth is finding a field in realestate. Land and apartment house companies are being organized daily, and their shares will in time find a market in our Real Estate Auction Room. I also think that in time the great estates of the country, the theatres, hotels and noted blocks of buildings in every city will be auctioned off in the New York Real Estate Exchange. Railroad grant lands and blocks of unimproved property in every State will find their market in New York. All this may seem visionary, but I do not think that the projectors of the Exchange themselves realize the full importance of the work they have originated.

Park Commissioner Crimmins, George N. Williams, William Lalor, ex-Alderman Sheehy and three other members of a committee appointed by the East Side Taxpayers' Association called on Mayor Edson on Thursday and explained to him the reasons why they thought an exterior street should be constructed along the East River between Sixty-fourth and Ninetieth streets. The draft of an act to establish such a street was also shown, and, if the Mayor approves it, the committee will go to Albany and have it introduced into the Legislature. This is a desirable improvement and will be effected some day or other, but is it needed just at present !

Imperfect Plans of the Dock Department.

The public is already familiar with the legal complications which have sprung from the attempt at executing the plans of the Dock Department along the water front. The Courts have decided that the river streets cannot be widened without granting an indemnity to property holders, who have secured certain privileges on the wharves, and this decision has been sufficient to check, for the present, even the attempt at improvement. The situation will not be amended by the discovery, due to a careful study of the subject, that the plans themselves are to the last degree defective, and only calculated to prolong a system which has already worked great injuries to the city. The conception of river side streets may have been thought very pretty, but it was founded on no sound commercial reason. The plan would be well enough in a rural market town, with only a local traffic and no wholesale business; but for an entrepot like New York, where merchandise from every continent on the globe is to be handled, such streets represent rather an obstruction than a thoroughfare. They compel the use of drays for the removal of goods back and forth between the piers where they are unloaded and the warehouses in which they are stored, and this one incident is sufficient cause for their condemnation. The firm of H. B. Claffin & Co. keep eighteen drays constantly employed at trundling goods between the piers, the depots and their warehouses, and this rather numerous collection would be completely lost among the countless total of all the similar vehicles kept in the service of wholesale houses in the city. It is not surprising that our shippers are beginning to announce the complete withdrawal of one commercial specialty after another from our wharves, and their discovery of entrepots in Brooklyn, Jersey City and on the Kill Von Kull, where heavy merchandise can be more economically handled. It is impossible to find in New York facilities for handling such merchandise as sugar, grain, flour, cotton, petroleum, iron and other bulky specialtics in the long list of products for exchange, and under the present system their loss to the city is inevitable. The work of transshipment is better done even in Chicago. There all terminal machinery is made to meet and connect. and, were it not so, that city could never indulge in the luxury of wood pavements.

This clumsy and labor-losing method is the reason why it is assumed that the plans of the Dock Department are abortive. Instead of facilitating the work of commerce they promise only to continue the process of banishing the shipping from our piers. But while inflicting this damage they incidentally compass also another great injury. They contemplate the sacrifice of space enough for the ground room of a supplementary city of no mean population. Even if carried out only along the water front already improved by the construction of piers and bulkheads, these plans would deprive us of a surface more than five miles long by two hundred feet broad, a surface, too, that should be utilized over every inch of its extent. But for what purpose is the sacrifice to be made? To give us the filthiest, most offensive and crowded streets in New York, streets which all cleanly and respectable business instinctively avoids. They are sin ply a disgrace to the city. In these days of elevators both economy and good taste demand that, to within a few feet of the bulkhead, our water front should be lined with lofty fire-proof warehouses, solidly constructed and imposing. This is the object to be pursued, and it is a case, fortunately, where our indiscretions may be made to serve us well. It is not necessary that the streets shall be completely abandoned. The construction of warehouses resting on granite or iron columns and piers over these thoroughfares will serve the purpose of reclaiming the space, and yet leave us in the possession of everything worth while for the service of intercommuni-For the details of the plan, if it is permissable to descend to decation. tails when the general design is only suggested, the street railways should remain; but with switches, and vertical tracks extending the length of each pier they should be used exclusively for the transportation of merchandise. By this means communication could be maintained between the warehouses and any pier on either side of the city, and also with the freight depots of the railroads when they, too, like the warehouses, have been placed in their proper location.

As to the means of securing this reform along our water front, they are easily suggested, and the obstacles, though possibly considerable, are not greater than the obstructions which prevent the execution of the present plans of the Dock Department. Give the streets in fee, subject only to the right of way to men who will span them with warehouses, constructed in accordance with certain exterior requirements made to secure uniformity in the design. There can be little room for doubt that the space would be readily taken, for land will never go begging in the lower sections of the Of course there would be some opposition. It would come from two city. sources, from the owners of warehouse property held for rent in other sections of the city, and from the proprietors of the dilapidated rookeries that now line the water front streets. The first class could indemnify themselves by the construction of new warehouses on the reclaimed space, and their old buildings would certainly continue to rent for much more than enough to pay the interest on the money required for their new adventure. The second class could give us more trouble if they were persistent in their opposition, and might have their action for damages were the improvements undertaken without their consent. But over what ground can the Dock Department travel that fails to lead the way to a court house ? It would probably make easier terms for the city to buy all the property abutting on the streets, holding it afterwards for sale or rent for warehouse purposes, than to complete the dock improvements in accordance with the accepted plans. These plans, it must be remembered, are only an elaboration of our present faulty system, a system which is driving the shipping from our water front. Any expenditure in this direction represents only an extravagance.

While discussing this subject, however, there will be no use of attempting to disguise the fact that it is now too late to retrieve all the bad consequences that have followed upon the practice of our unlucky commercial methods. Brooklyn has now nearly, if not quite, as many miles of improved water front as New York, which she offers to the use of shippers on terms that render competition on this side of the East River very dif. ficult. Jewell's wharf, near the foot of Fulton street, may be considered a representative pier, yet the proprietors draw only about $10,000 per year rental, and this dock is probably as profitable as any other in the city. Compare this amount with the $70,000 per year, the sum at which one pier has recently been let in New York, and we may have some idea of the relative cost of wharfage in the two cities. The shipping has floated away from the New York piors, the charm is broken. and commerce is now distributing itself around the entire harbor. The west shore of the Hudson River has nearly five miles of improved water front, there is another mile on the Kill Von Kull, and the American docks at Tompkinsville, Staten Island, where large quantities of cotton are stored, form the nucleus of a new system destined to rapidly expand. The speedy completion of a water front railway along the north shore of Staten Island, connecting with the main land, is now as certain as any other human event; and when this route is opened the island will have advantages over every other section of the harbor. Unlike Jersey City, Hoboken and Weehawken, where the corporations have secured a monoply and control, the water front on Staten Island is free and open to individual enterprise, and it is comparatively inexpensive. These are the new facts which forbid that we should be too sanguine, even under the most favorable conditions, when speculating on the probability of a return of the shipping business to the city. But we should not be prevented by the discovery of these facts from improving our water front in acc.rdance with plans that will bring greater comfort and convenience to a section of New York that is becoming painfully crowded.

The Mutual Life Building.

NEW YORK, January 15th, 1884.

Editor of THE REAL ESTATE RECORD AND BUILDERS' GUIDE: DEAR SIR—In the article on the Mutual Life Insurance Company's building, published in your number of January 12th, I find the erroneous statement made in a former issue of your paper repeated. You say that "the granite piers stand upon brick piers of their own area." This is a mistake; the brick piers have a sectional area of more than double that of the granite piers. It is plain to the view that they (the brick piers) are not only large enough to take the projecting base stones of the granite piers, but they extend also each side beyond the line of the jambs of the granite piers.

The statement you make, based upon this assumption (of the piers having the same area), that "the granite can scarcely be needed for strength," shows that you have considered only one factor of strength in a pier, viz., sectional area; accordingly, brick would have been a strong enough material instead of granite.

The factor of proportion of height to cross section in a pier, which you have failed to consider, is quite as important as sectional area. The granite piers in question are seven and one-quarter diameters in height. The brick piers upon which they stand are only one and one-half diameters high; therefore the long piers are proportionately weaker than the short piers below them and require a proportionately stronger material to obtain the same strength, and these matters have been adjusted by calculation the same strength, and these matters have been adjusted by calculation. I do not consider the buff (lime) stone, which you mean to recommend, competent, much less would I use it if it were "sand" stone, as you inadvertently call it.

Again, if the buff stone were used instead of the granite, the piers, being of the same material and of inferior or weaker proportions than those above them, would be weaker than they. That they would look weaker is beyond doubt also, and this would be undesirable.

But now I am stepping on æsthetic grounds, upon which I prefer not discussing the merits or demerits of my work.

If you will kindly give this a place in your paper you will greatly oblige, Yours, most respectfully, CHAS. W. CLINTON.

The Dry-Goods District.

Mr. Victor Levi says that rents do not hold their own in the business district of the Fifth Ward. Landlords, like the Lorillards, who have been sanguine as to the value of rentals in years past, are now willing to concede something to the tenants. Unlike residence property, leases in this business district are usually made between November and February, the first of the latter month being the beginning of the renting year. There are no lack of applicants for lofts, but costly stores are not in the same demand as formerly. There is a disposition to do business on a more economical basis, so far as rentals go. Jobbers in Yankee notions, men and women's underwear, and a great variety of other articles, have no need of costly stores in which to display their goods, and hence the demand for upstairs accommodations, on account of their cheapness. Mr. Levi instanced one establishment, a newly erected building, which the proprietor thought ought to rent for $10,000 a floor. He is now willing to take $7,500. The failures in business have not as yet apparently diminished the numbers of those who require accommodations for disposing of merchandise by wholesale.

The real estate dealers of Chicago partook of a banquet at the Palmer. House on the 15th inst. Some two hundred gentlemen, including the Mayor of the city, were at the table. The novelty was the use of cider in place of wines. Speeches were made by the President, H. C. Morey, B. F. Jacobs, A. E. Cummings, H. L. Turner, Mayor Harrison, C. H. Milliken, R. C. Givens, J. P. Wilson, I. B. Raine and F. E. Bryan. In the course of a speech made by W. L. Pierce, he said :

The want of confidence that had existed the past two years in railroad securities had caused a decline of a thousand million dollars in the market, quotations could not be restored by an addition to an irredeemable currency. A crisis had come to these inflation issues of stocks and bonds without a general panic setting in as in 1873. A tumble had taken place in iron fabrics, but the cure was not in the currency. In fact money had been more abundant than ever, the uses for it had lessened by the collapse in railroad building and iron over-production. The effect had been to increase the currency as compared to the quantity of commodities, and the con-clusion was irresistible that what the public had confidence in must rise from the inflation of the circulating medium alone. Over $80,000,000 excess of exports over imports last year, 16,000,000 acres of public land taken for entry, 20 per cent, increase over 1882 and double that of 1880; New York bank deposits, $33,000,000 increase over the same time last year, $8,000,000 above legal reserve, enormous crops of wheat and cotton, immense in stocks in store and to come forward, continued heavy immigration, and an easy money market to cap the climax of good things in store, were the prospects for the year 1884. The public had not lost faith in real estate, and Chicago real estate stood first.

John Swinton recently advertised for a compositor in the New York Sun. He received over two hundred replies from first class workmen, and it is quite clear that five or six hundred good printers are now out of employment in this city. The printers have themselves to blame. They have raised wages in this city at a time of unusual business depression, when the prices formerly paid were far higher than in other cities. New York city should do the great bulk of the book and job printing of the country. It is the metropolis which distributes the great mass of books, and the railroad companies and others who want large jobs and show cards would prefer to have their work done here as it is the greatest and most convenient centre of trade. The theatrical business requires an enormous quantity of show bills, but New York has been largely cut off from this ucrative work by the exorbitant demand of the working printers. The theatrical business is given to Buffalo, Cleveland, Chicago and other interior cities. Even posters for this city are printed thousands of miles away, and have been for years. The daily newspaper proprietors are greatly to blame for this unnatural rate of wages, which is driving business from New York. They have two objects in view, one to make the printing of daily papers costly, and so discourage the rivalry of cheap papers. Then again, Messrs. Bennett, Jones and Dana do not like to fight printers' unions. It looks mean and excites the prejudice of the working classes against them. Typographical Union No. 6, the local association of the printers, has taken advantage of this position of the newspaper proprietors and has put up the price of composition to absurdly high figures, which is a very good thing for a few men, but ruinous to hundreds of others, as it has driven printing to other cities. The proprietors of the Evening Post and Tribune have successfully resisted the attempt of the union, and the other newspapers could save from two to four hundred dollars a week in their printing bills without any trouble. The price of composition and job work must come down, and the newspaper proprietors who encourage the present high rates are simply injuring the whole book and job trade of this city.

Old New York real estate dealers will regret to hear that Anthony J, Bleecker is no more. He died at his late residence, 100 West Fifty-sixth street, on Thursday last. He was born October 20, 1799, and came of one of the historic families of the metropolis. He was sixty years in business, in which he did so much that he claimed to have bought and sold the New York of his day four times over. Mr. Bleecker was once a United States Marshal and ran against Fernando Wood as a Whig candidate for Mayor. He will be buried to-day from Trinity Church at 2 P. M., and his body will be laid in the family vault.

In reference to the paragraph in our last issue showing the shortcomings of the New York press, a well known journalist sends us a letter, from which the following extract may be of interest:

which the following extract may be of interest: "True, too true. I have often thought of it lately, and wondered if it is possible for the daily journalism of the metropolis of the country to find any lower depth of intellectuality. Is the taste of New York so utterly limited to crime, scandal and party bickerings? What we want is a paper to be read by people who have brains as well as membranes. Let it represent at least a fair average of culture, be bright and newsy, but not nasty. There is room for such a paper, provided it can be content with the company of the "few and fit." If it insists on having the coppers of the million it must go down to this level to get them. The newspaper should be very liberal. The present race of papers are away behind the culti-vated intelligence of the community, keeping step with the veriest old prej-udices and superstitions. Not that the editors believe in them, but that they think it will, in some way, swell the subscription list. One would think that the appreciation of pluck and independence had died out of this "Kingdom of majorities." And this suggests one of the dubious aspects of the Democratic experiment; this habit of conforming everything to the source of authority below rather than to that above."

source of authority below rather than to that above." Improving Old Buildings. It is not always the modern office buildings that produce the largest net income. Adding interest on the cost of some of these expensive structures, the sum of losses from unrented space and the increased cost of maintenance, furnishing steam, running elevators, &c., it may fairly be questioned whether during this decade at least it would not be more profitable to remodel many of the old structures in the office district than to build new on the ten-story principle, particularly where the area is limited and the demand not pressing. There are very many buildings in the lower part of the city that, from natural causes, undesirable occupation, or bad management, have so depreciated that the rent bears no reasonable proportion to the valua-tion. Such property is always capabe of incprovement, and any one familiar with the requirements of the probable occupants of a building, and competent to undertake such work, has a large field of usefalness before him. Architects invariably ignore this branch, preferring rather to distinguish themselves by designing ornamental fronts and roots. Not so with our real estate agents, however. One of them, Mr. Ferdinand Fish, has met with such marked success in the improvement and management of this class of property, that his increasing business compels him to keep an experienced architect constantly employed preparing plans and specifi-cations and superintending work. Mr. Fish evidently retains the confidence his predecessor, the late James M. Taylor, enjoyed for so many years. He has a number of clients who are guided by his judgment in the purchase or leasing of property of this class, for which we notice he advertises in another column. We are compelled to recognize his success in the management of at least one building that has come under our notice, being in view from our windows.

windows. Through skilful rearrangement and judicious expenditure he has more than doubled the income within two years. We hear of another instance where the increase has been even greater. Certainly no one knows better the requirements of tenants than a real estate agent, who, also, if he be competent, is most likely to make an investment prefitable where a chance presents itself.

Real Estate Department.

The season of dullness is drawing to a close. Next week there will doubtless be more activity, which will keep on increasing until April. The only important transaction on the Exchange during the past week was the sale of some lower Broadway property, which brought what experts thought was rather a low figure. From this time forth, for a year or so, no forced sale will be a good one nor will prices be as buoyant as they have been. The following shows the Conveyances and Mortgages recorded during the past week, as compared with the corresponding week last year:

Gossip of the Week.

Charles Duggin has sold the two new four-story high stoop brick and brown stone front private dwellings, Nos. 6 and 8 East Forty-fourth street, each 25x65x100, with extensions, which he purchased last week from Messrs. C. Buek & Co., to Dr. White, for a total of $125,000.

J. V. D. Wyckoff has sold, for R. Guggenheimer and S. Marx, the fourstory brown stone cabinet-finished single flat, with mirrors, gas fixtures, &c., No. 161 East Seventy-fifth street, size 18.9x79x102.2, to Frederick Eugene Grant, for $18,250.

Out Among the Builders.

The Colwell Lead Company intend to tear down the building on the northwest corner of Sixth avenue and Thirty-ninth street and to erect on the site a five or six-story structure, into which they will remove from their present place of business, at No. 1416 Broadway. No architect has yet been selected.

A company has just been incorporated, under the style of "The Lyceum," with a capital of $36,000, in 360 shares of $100 each. The incorporators are P. G. Hubert, Saml. Lowden, Jas. W. Pirsson, J. S. Ellis, R. L. Pirsson, H. E. Reeve, C. W. Clinton, Thos. C. Van Brunt, Wm. H. Hall, Ed. Franke, F. F. Ward, and M. McDonough. The object of the company is the purchase and improvement of real estate for residences, homesteads and apartment houses, and for buildings for public meetings. Mr. P. G. Hubert informed a representative of THE RECORD AND GUIDE that the company intended to erect the Lyceum as early as possible. It would contain a club, a private theatre, with spacious dining-rooms and other apartments. The theatre would be used for select musicales and theatricals of a private character. One of the main objects of the club would be the reception of distinguished artists from abroad. Some of the best families in the city would be connected with the club. The theatre will nearly equal in size the Fifth Avenue, and will have a tier of private boxes reserved for the stockholders. Hubert, Pirsson & Co. will be the architects.

The bill of costs and expenses incurred by the Commissioners in the matter relative to the opening of One Hundred and Forty-sixth street, between Avenue St. Nicholas and Tenth avenue, will be presented to one of the Justices of the Supreme Court for taxation on February 1, 1884.

Contractors' Notes.

Bids or estimates will be received at the Department of Public Works until Wednesday, January 23, 1884, at 12 o'clock M., for furnishing materials and performing work in the erection of an iron shed over a portion of the sidewalk surrounding Fulton Market.

General Horace Porter will doubtless confine himself hereafter to making funny after-dinner speeches. His presidency of the West Shore road was a heart-rending joke to a great many people.

The up-town movement of churches continues. The old Jane street Methodist Episcopal Church, near Eighth avenue, built forty years ago, is about to sell out and move up-town. The Presbyterian Church in the same street will also remove.

New York and several debt-ridden cities might take a profitable lesson in finance from Baltimore, which owes $38,000,000. This is a large amount, but it is so judiciously managed that it is not felt to be a burden on the taxpayers. The money is so well invested that the annual levy for interest purposes is only three mills on the hundred dollars. The water-works debt of Baltimore is $7,000,000, but the revenue on the works more than pays the interest. The city has a large sum invested in the stock and mortgage bonds of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, which pays the interest on $10,000,000, while the revenue derived from her street railroads provides the interest on another million. Baltimore's sinking fund investment is $8,000,000, producing an income of $425,000, which is growing at the rate of $300,000 a year. This is sufficient to meet the interest on her entire debt as it falls due. From this showing it is evident that Baltimore has been a well governed city.

, Don't pay back to a tenant that you have to turn out by summary proceedings, any deposit that you required and obtained when the tenant moved in, as security for the faithful performance by him of the covenants on his part contained in his lease. Keep the money. It does not make any difference whether the sum deposited with you is inadequate or more than enough to cover any loss that the tenant's default may have caused you. If it be more than enough, that's the landlord's good luck, and it is the tenant's own fault, and is the bargain he made. That's what Judge McAdam decided last Saturday in the case of Rice against Bliss, on the argument of Messrs. McDaniel, Wheeler & Souther, counsel for the landlord.

Special Notices.

The thirty-fourth annual report of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, a synopsis of which will be found elsewhere, makes a very good The total income for the year is set down as $12,346,362.41; the showing. gross assets, $10,871,184.23; and the surplus, $2,389,550.52. This seems to be a very prosperous and popular company.

Turning of every description is done by J. Gregorius, of Nos. 113, 115 and 117 Attorney street, where he turns out all kinds of hardwood mouldings, mahogany, walnut, cherry, ash, oak, etc. He has every facility for this kind of work on the above premises, and has been in business for many years. All orders addressed to him as above will receive prompt attention.

A recent invention that will interest contractors and builders has been patented by Mr. T. L. Lynch, by means of which sash, weight and cords can be attached to the upper and lower sashes without tearing out the sashes, stop-beads, etc. The advantages of this invention will be readily appreciated by architects and builders, but for the uninitiated it may be well to state that heretofore it has been necessary, when repairing a broken cord, to tear out a part of the frame with the almost certain chance of disfiguring the woodwork and paint, damaging lace curtains -and hangings, and possibly breaking expensive plate glass. This invention has been applied in the houses belonging to Mr. John Castree, president, and to Mr. W. H. Buxton, cashier of the Irving Savings Institution, to whom Mr. Lynch refers. It has also been endorsed by a number of architects. Mr. Lynch's office is at 103 Christopher street, where his improvement can be seen and full particulars obtained.

Parties requiring butchers' fixtures, tools, etc., would do well to call at the manufactory of Edward L. Gallon, Nos. 305, 307 and 309 West Fortyfirst street. This is the oldest established business in that line. Refrigerators, wine and fish freezers and saloon ice houses are also supplied by him. Contracts can be made with architects and builders for supplying flats, apartment houses, etc. The best of references are given, as will be seen from Mr. Gallon's card in another column.

The Record and Guide.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

BRICKS.—On the market for Common Hards matters are somewhat stupid at the moment, and there is very little of much general interest to advise. The season of the year and the condition of the weather, however, are both prime factors in checking consumption, and while a more active state of business not altogether disappointed. Even at some of the large job: where work goes forward spasmodically as opportunity admits, there is a fair accumulation of the weather, is fairly offset by the reduced quantity of stock to draw upon, and about the only development of new demand is when the necessities of the case require positively dry brick. The slow distribution, however, is fairly offset by the reduced quantity of stock offering, and the average inclination of prices in buyers' favor, the few sales made this week showing some advance, and the turn about $8.00 per M has been made for the best stock. From "Up River" arrivals have stopped altogether, and the prosent are at hard from lower down the stream as the flats are forzen over and communication with the yards checked. New Jersey has also contributed moderately, and there some what difficult effort to decide upon a really fair and positive representative line of quotations and we therefore call figures a little nominal at say $650@ 7.00 for Jerseys, $7.00@7.25 for Long Island, about the same or a shade more for "Up Rivers," and $7.50 @ $0.00 for Haverstraws on the general run, but fine with $4.00 about an inside rate, and only moderate amounts of stock available. BRICKS .- On the market for Common Hards mat ters are somewhat stupid at the moment, and there

CEMENT .- Domestic grades are without any great degree of animation and selling mainly on regular calls and to seasonable outlets. No fresh receipts are secured, but from the accumulations on hand agents meet the wants of the market fairly and promptly. There is some irregularity on values and quotations are made from $1.15 up to $1.25, according to quan-tity, delivery and brand, and we hear of some of the favorite marks on special orders going still higher. Foreign stock is also steady, indeed inclined to some degree of firmness at full former rates. Fair arrivals have taken place since the first of the month, but about all appears to have been sold before receipt, and of the standard brands, at least, we hear of little or nothing available. Importers, as a rule, report a fair demand still extant, and generally appear in cheerful mood over the outlook. calls and to seasonable outlets. No fresh receipts are

GLASS .- The market for window is dull at the moment. Of imported stock the accumulation is on the increase and this appears to have a slight soften. ing influence upon values though holders are not pressing business at all. American remains to some extent nominal. The meeting of manufacturers this week has been very secret but it is understood they still feel unwilling to submit to the demands of the workmen and want more protection in the way of tariff

HARDWARE.-The distribution continues to be limited to a few small and unimportant orders, and the general market lacks animation throughout. the general market lacks animation throughout. Dealers, however, seem to be in expectation of a bet-ter call for builders' hardware at an early date, on the belief that stocks in second hands have run down somewhat and that consumption will improve. Sup-plies and assortments in first hands are good and equal to any ordinary call, and the effort is to keep values on a steady basis if possible. There has, how-ever, for some little time been an irregular tone on the market for screws, and manufacturers vary on the line of discounts. The rates on Manila cordage were recently reduced 1/2c. per lb.

LATH -The market has not been active because there was not much stock to be active with, but the evidences favor the belief that a larger quantity would have found a place without much difficulty. On the business transacted there has certainly been a recovery of tone and an increase of value with the rate advanced to $250 per M, at which the market closes with much firmness, and everything imme-diately available sold out. Neither can we learn that there is much afloat for this port (indeed only one cargo at parently), and the seling interest again ap-pears to have secured a fair advantage with a reason-ab e prospect of holding it. Yard prices are also firm, as few dealers have much stock, and in the majority of cases there is an inclination to part with it as slow-ly as possible. would have found a place without much difficulty.

LUMBER .- The season of the year and the uncertain condition of the weather have a tendency to check consumption and deliveries from yard, and the tone of the market is dull all around. In a wholesale way the small arrivals prevent any special effort to tone of the market is dull all around. In a wholesale way the small arrivals prevent any special effort to realize and permit receivers to enter a claim of steadi-ness, but the general indications are that they would find it extremely difficult to secure a larger outlet, even at a marked concession on the line of valuation. The fact is, no one really requires any important ad-cition to stock just now, and are more or less disturbed about the future The recent failures in the building trade have confirmed some of the previous fears, and, naturally, contracts are entered upon slowly in all cases, as lumber at present cost is considered a great deal better to carry than an uncertain risky line of credit. Exporters afford a fair sort of outlet, but this does not, to any noticeable extent, help the market beyond the grades handled. Eastern Spruce in a general way has a steady posi-tion, as it is more than likely that a moderate offering about the old line of valuation. Arrivals, however, are quite uncertain at this season and the position has no really fair test. Specials do not appear to be ten-star the New Year with some misgivings, which leads far the advices from manufacturers have continued moderately firm, but without evidences of tendency to buoyancy. Quotations about $13016 are the general range, with the usual possibilities for specials. White Pine has found some little local demand and a fair outlet for shipment, but the movement is not of unusual proportions nor so large as to afford sellers any great amount of encouragement for further ad-

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From the columns of the Northwestern Lumberman we take the following:

we take the following: Logging, on the whole, is progressing most favor-ably. Rarely are there so few obstructions in the way to good work. If the swamps are not solid it is not a fault of the weather. There is plenty of snow in most of the districts for good hauling, but not enough any-where to impede the progress of the logzers. During the extreme cold weather some of the crews made no great exertions, but now that the thermometer has gone up from 20 to 40 degrees the men and teams are working their best. One thing that pleases the opera-tors is the small cost, as compared with last winter, at which they are banking their stock. CHICAGO. CHICAGO

CHICAGO. AT THE YARDS.—The chief element of trade at the present is—hope. The lumber dealers of this city have been credited with great enterprise and commer-cial ability. Now they are distinguishing themselves as witnesses to the doctrine of faith. They are hoping and believing, if not with all their hearts, certainly with all their might. Probably not for years have the lumber merchants had as much time to devote to this good work as sin: New Year's. Never within cur memory have we seen the district show so little life ds now.

through the hardwood country, and some searching is often necessary to discover the stock wherewith to fill the more exacting orders. Besides, almost all the stock in the country is d y, showing that there is a very slow output. All this bodes good to the manu-facturer and dealer alike.

facturer and dealer alike. LUMBERMAN AND MANUFACTURER, MINNEAPOLIS, MINN, S Reports are meagre concerning the lumber business of the country, several letters received this week re-port uniformly "Trade dull and collections very diff-cult," Handling lumber with the mercury standing anywhere from 20 to 40 degrees below zero is neither pleasant nor profitable work. During the last half of the month several large sales are reported to South-ern Iowa, Missouri and Kansas for future delivery. Prices are firmer and confidence seems about fully restored as to values. News from the woods makes summer, but considering the growth of the western world and the consequent increased demand for lum-ber, we are led to believe that neither logs nor lumber will materially change in value in 1884, even if the winter should prove long and favorable for the log-gers. #### The London Timber Trade's Journal says :

The London Timber Trade's Journal says: Business for the past year in the timber trade has been, on the whole, less unfavorable than was at one consumers. The season commenced with a slight ad-vance on the closing prices of the previous year, but the rise sought to be established could not be sustain-ed, and prices may be suid to have been declining all through the season, up to its termination, without showing any signs of recovering. The chief charac-teristic has been the close competition on all sides, which necessitated turning goods over quickly at very little margin. Such a spirit of trade is averse to holding stock, and freshly-arrived goods in large lines were sold on the quays with the object of saving yard expenses. The cheapness of the commodity has un-doubtedly been the principal cause of the season's heavy import.

NAILS .- The demand is moderate and careful, and buyers evidently do not propose to invest with any more rapidity than necessity compels. The market more rapidity than necessity compels. The market in consequence has a dull sort of tone on all outlets with no selling basis for the infusion of greater strength at the moment. The general run of supplies is ample for all the calls made, but the prospect of a reduced make at the Eastern mills before work is re-sumed at the West, tends to make holders a triffe steadier and unlikely to allow concessions. We quote at  $$2, \pounds0_{2,0}$  per keg for 10d. to 60d., according to size of invoice.

PAINTS AND OILS .- It has been a light and somewhat uncertain week all around, and dealers, as a rule. appear to have little or no news to communicate. appear to have little or no news to communicate. Supplies are fairly assorted and well enough in hand to p event pressure to realize, but all available when called for, and no attempt to increase the cost would be made. Linseed Oil remains steady and in average demand at 56 @58c. for domestic, and 58@60c. for foreign. Spirits Turpentine selling slowly and mainly in job lots with tone of market weak, especially for large parcels. Quoted at 35@37c. according to size of invoice.

PITCH AND TAR.-Buyers call for about average quantity and are met by a fair offering with former rates accepted all around. We quote pitch $2 2:@2.30 per bbl., and tar $2 50@3.00 do., according to quantity, quality and delivery.

  - MORTGAGES.

Nore.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mort-gage was handed into the Register's office to be re-coraed. Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street in these lists of mortgage, and for fullor particulars see the list of transfers under the corres-ponding date.
